MISSING GUNMEN ARE IN THE TOILS

"Gyp, the Blood," and "Lefty Louie" Captured in Suburb of Brooklyn.

WIVES FURNISHED THE CLUE

Deputy Commissioner Dougherty Arrested Murderers of Rosenthal Without Any Show of Resistance—Scenes

New York, Sept. 14.—"Gyp, The Blood" and "Lefty Louie," the missing gunmen indicted as two of the actual slayers of Herman Rosenthal, the gambler, were found by the police tonight living with their wives in a flat in the Brownsville section of Brooklyn.

They were arrested by Deputy Police Commission Dougherty and a squad of detectives who brought them to police headquarters and locked them up. They will be arraigned on Monday.

The two men had been occupying the flat since August 15th and were alone until last Tuesday, when they were joined by their wives, through whom clues to their whereabouts were obtained by the police.

The four were sitting at tea when Deputy Commissioner Dougherty and his men broke open the door of their apartment and with revolvers drawn ordered them to hold up their hands. Neither of the men made any show of resistance.

"Drop your guns. You've got us," said "Gyp, The Blood," calmly.

"Give us a little time to get dressed, will you?" said "Lefty Louie," with equal composure. Scarcely another remark was made to the police by either man until they were examined at police headquarters later by Assistant District Attorney Moss, acting for District Attorney Whitman who has gone to Hot Springs to take testimony of persons who talked to Sam Schepps, a witness in the case.

The women, however, made a scene, throwing their arms around their husbands' necks and shedding copious tears. They had to be torn away from the men before the police could get their prisoners out of the apartment, and were later brought to headquarters.

With the arrest of "Gyp" and "Lefty" whose real names are Harry Horowitz and Louis Rosensweig, all of the seven men accused of the murder of Rosenthal of which Police Lieutenant Charles Becker is the alleged instigator, are now in custody. The capture of the two men came as a result of what is regarded in police circles as the best detective work done in the history of the department.

The arrests of the two gunmen were the result of unbroken surveillance of the wives and relatives of the men since their disappearance of the day of the murder, July 16th. This surveillance was maintained by 60 detectives working in relays who kept Deputy Commissioner Dougherty constantly in touch with what they did and where they went. The final clue came as the result of piecing together a number of conversations overheard by detectives and reported to the commissioner at different times. The first conversation was that "they are not lonesome because they can see a moving picture show from their back windows."

Another conversation gave the information that there was a laundry in the house where the missing men lived which was named either the New Brighton, the Bright, or the Brighton Hand Laundry.

A third conversation supplied the fact that the neighborhood was full of Sweedes and Germans.

It then became Commissioner Dougherty's task to discover somewhere a hand laundry in proximity to a moving picture show in a vicinity inhabited by foreigners of the nationalities named.

Early today Detectives Cassaso and Meyer discovered in Brooklyn the New Brigaton Hand Laundry, which perfectly fitted all requirements. They set themselves to watch the apartments situated above the laundry and late in the afternoon were rewarded by seeing "Gyp the Blood's" wife leave the building and do an errand at the store. Both wives had been missing since Tuesday, when they cleverly evaded detectives by jumping into a waiting automobile after leaving an elevated train on which they were riding in the direction of Harlem. The detectives therefore felt certain that they were with their husbands. The women had several other times eluded surveillance by the use of automobiles, but previously had always returned to their homes in New York. The arrest followed as soon as the detectives could collect reinforcements.

Commissioner Dougherty said tonight that "Gyp" and "Lefty" had fled immediately after the murder to Parksville, N. Y., a Summer resort in the Catskill mountains and remained there over a week. His men had traced them back to New York by their baggage checks, but had lost them at the Hoboken terminal. Where they were between July 26th, the date of their arrival and August 15th, the commissioner has not definitely determined.

Samuel Kramer, who was in the flat with the two gunmen and who has a record as a pickpocket, was taken to police headquarters.

Assistant District Attorney Moss' examination of the two gunmen was not completed at midnight, but at that time he sent out word indicating that he had been unsuccessful in getting either man to confess his alleged part in the Rosenthal murder.

"There are no important developments yet," the prosecutor's message read. "Generally speaking, these men stand pat."

GIBSON PREPARING DEFENSE

Lawyer Accused of Szabo Murder Says He Will Clear Himself Easily—Search is Made for Funds Given Him.

Middletown, N. Y., Sept. 14.—Burton W. Gibson, the accused lawyer, declared in his cell in the Goshen jail today that he was preparing a defense which would clear him instantly of the charge that he murdered his client, Rosa Menschik Szabo. He refused to reveal, however, what facts he expected to present to the court when he is arraigned on September 24th to refute the charge that he strangled Mrs. Szabo before she was "drowned" in Greenwood lake, N. Y., while the pair were boating together on July 16th. Gibson has not yet engaged a lawyer to defend him.

"I'll get a lawyer when the situation warrants it," he said in an apparently bored manner.

Where Did the Money Go?

New York, Sept. 14.—Representatives of the Austro-Hungarian consulate continued their investigations today to learn what disposition was made of $7,100 of funds of Mrs. Rosa Menschik Szabo, for whose alleged murder, at Greenwood lake, Burton W. Gibson is now incarcerated in Goshen, N. Y.

Gibson, as executor of Mrs. Szabo's estate, opened an account in a local bank in August under the name of "Estate of Rusena Menschik Szabo" and deposited $7,397. Subsequently Gibson, as executor, withdrew all but $297. The investigators are trying to find out what he did with the money. There are reports that Mrs. Szabo had an attorney other than Gibson and detectives are hunting for him.

CAR SERVICE RESUMED

Strike-Breakers Man Cars In Duluth, Minn.—No Rioting

Duluth, Minn., Sept. 14.—Car service, which has been interrupted by a strike, was resumed today, at least 75 per cent of the cars running, manned by strike-breakers. Not a brick was thrown. Sheriff Meining had men stationed at vital points ready to nip in the bud any disturbance. With Governor Eberhart present and city officers making every endeavor to stop rioting, which was rampant yesterday, business was resumed.

Governor Eberhart arrived early and at once asked for a meeting of city authorities, street car officials and those civic leagues and organizations protesting against the strike. He declared that the riots must stop at once. He told the sheriff to stop disorder or he would order out the militia. The Governor later declared his confidence in the sheriff and the sheriff's ability to cope with any situation which may arise. The car repairers went out in sympathy today.

AVIATION CLAIMS ANOTHER VICTIM

Howard Gill Killed in Mid-Air Collision With Geo-Mestache.

FRENCHMAN NOT BADLY HURT

Baltimore Birdman Falls 75 Feet at Cicero Aviation Field With Fatal Result—Accident Occurred at Twilight.

Chicago, Sept. 14.—Aviator Howard W. Gill, of Baltimore, was killed on the Cicero Aviation Field tonight, while George Mestache, of France, whose monoplane collided with Gill's biplane, when they were participating in a race, 75 feet in the air, was injured as the two men and their machines fell to the earth in the dark.

Mestache soon revived and his condition was found to be not serious. After recovering consciousness Mestache said:

"I was going at top speed in my monoplane in an effort to win the race. Looking behind I saw Gill in his biplane turning around a pylon and rapidly approaching me, a few feet below. I jerked my elevator, thinking to give him ample space to clear beneath. From the cockpit of my monoplane I was unable to get a good view of just what was happening, but it seems that Gill, driving straight ahead, hit my understructure. This had the effect of bouncing me off and plunging me to the ground. For a few moments I was unconscious. When I came to I saw Gill lying in the wreckage of his car not 50 feet away. We had collided in midair with the inevitable result."

The accident occurred just as darkness fell at the end of a day of spectacular flights. Five thousand people were viewing the race at the time, but owing to the darkness and the fact that the accident happened on the off side of the field, half a mile distant, few of the spectators could tell just how the disaster occurred.

Darkness was said to be primarily the cause of the accident. Paul Peck on the same field the other day met his death at sunset. Today's accident occurred even later. While there was light higher up it was almost dark near the ground.

Mestache said that just before the monoplane race was to start he protested to the officials of the Aero Club of Illinois, against racing in the darkness, but the start was called and he went up.

Gill had just participated in a biplane race with three others. He had come down but had re-ascended and was circling over the course independently of the monoplane race. Two other aviators were up high and the eyes of the spectators at the time were directed to a spectacular downward flight of Lillie, who had stopped his engine at an altitude of 2,500 feet.

Mestache was going about a mile in two minutes and had gone only twice around the course when his monoplane and Gill's biplane came to the earth together.

Just how they collided, even Mestache, with his view obscured by his low seat in his cockpit, was unable clearly to explain. Timekeepers at the pylons nearest the spot declared Mestache was in the lead and Gill, coming up faster from behind at the turn, tried to pass beneath Mestache. The two machines clashed, the wings became entangled and both came to the ground. From the judges' stand half a mile away on the opposite side of the course, ambulances were rushed across the field. Both men were lying on the ground apparently dead, Gill in the wreckage of his machine, and Mestache a few feet away. After being shaken, Mestache became conscious. Gill never regained consciousness. His chest was crushed in by the weight of the engine. He was started to a hosiptal, but died on the way.

At the hospital it was found that Mestache's head was cut, but his injuries were not serious. He, with three other French aviators, including Jules Vedrines, who won the James Gordon Bennett trophy, was among the foreigners to take a prominent part at the opening of the present meet.

Officials of the club tonight said the meet would continue tomorrow and all next week.

NOT AN OROZCO

Gen. Huerta Denies Rumors of Counter Revolution

Juarez, Mexico, Sept. 14.—"I am not an Orozco," declared General Victoriano Huerta tonight, when asked regarding the persistent rumors of a counter revolution in Mexico on Monday, the Mexican Independence Day. Orozco is the leader of the present revolution in Northern Mexico. He turned against Madero and the constitutional government after receiving a commission as a general.

Huerta is commander-in-chief of the division of the north. He is in command of all of the Federal forces against Orozco and his revolutionists. He vouched for the loyalty of the Mexican army to the government of Mexico.

TAFT IS FIFTY-FIVE YEARS OLD TODAY

President Will be Given a Birthday Party by Aunt Delia Torrey.

TO TRY COMPENSATION BILL

Refusal of Congress to Pass Act Makes Taft Determined to Try It In The Panama Canal Zone—Has It Redrafted

Beverly, Mass., Sept. 14.—The refusal of Congress to agree to the workmen's compensation bill, pushed by the administration, has made President Taft determined to apply the bill's principles in the Panama canal zone, where his authority does not need the further sanction of Congress.

Under the Panama Canal act, the President was given authority to make the laws for the zone by executive order. Within the next few weeks he expects to proclaim as law for the canal zone a workmens' compensation act greatly similar to the one which last session passed the Senate, but failed in the House.

Senator Sutherland, of Utah, redrafted the bill to suit the needs of the zone and the President has sent it to Panama for the approval of officials there.

It became known before Mr. Taft left here for Millbury, Mass., to visit his aunt, Miss Delia Torrey, that he is planning an attack on the Democrats for their apparent opposition to the administration's proposed "budget system" of submitting to the country and to Congress a detailed estimate of the expected revenues and expenditures for each year.

Before leaving today the President received many letters and telegrams congratulating him on attaining 55 years. His birthday will come tomorrow.

At the Home of His Aunt

Millbury, Mass., Sept. 14.—President William Howard Taft slept tonight at the home of his aunt, Miss Delia Torrey, who tomorrow will give a party in honor of his 55th birthday. The President and Mrs. Taft and Miss Helen Taft motored up from Beverly during the afternoon. The party arrived at Aunt Delia's in Millbury about 5 o'clock. Shortly afterward the President and Miss Torrey, Miss Helen and several friends started off again in two automobiles for Whitinsville, where a friend of Miss Taft's, Miss Marion LaSalle, was married to Minturn De Fuzzuri Verdi late in the day.

The President, his aunt and daughter attended, remaining later for the reception at the LaSalle home.

Mrs. Taft remained at the Torrey home. The President's party returned to Millbury after the reception.

WILL PROBE HAZING TRAGEDY

Sweeping Investigation to be Made of Young Rand's Death at Chapel Hill—Body Sent Home—Three Raise Bail.

Chapel Hill, N. C., Sept. 14.—All that was mortal of Isaac William Rand, the young University Freshman, who was killed in a hazing episode on the college athletic field early Friday morning, was borne by loving hands to the station this afternoon and sent to the boy's home in Smithfield. The college bell tolled as the body was being borne to the station and the North Carolyina flag was at half mast, while the campus took on an aspect of mourning. Three of the Sophomores alleged to be guilty of the death of young Rand have made the $5,000 bond required; the fourth is still in custody. A sweeping investigation is to be made of the tragic affair and of hazing practice at the State's institution. President Venable will make a full statement of the case to the executive council Monday at its meeting. It is rumored that Young Rand was stabbed with a knife during a quarrel incident to the hazing, but this lacks verification. It is charged that hazing has been practiced at the University for years and that last year one boy was seriously hurt, but that the matter was kept quiet. It is understood that all these matters will be thoroughly investigated under Governor Kitchin's orders for a rigid inquiry into conditions at Chapel Hill.

College Community Mourns.

Chapel Hill, N. C., Sept. 14.—Accompanied by the father and elder brother, the body of Isaac William Rand, the Freshman of the State University that came to such a tragic end early yesterday as a victim of a hazing frolic, was taken to his home at Smithfield this morning for burial. Giving expression to its deep sorrow over the occasion the college bell tolled while the corpse was being conveyed to the station and the North Carolina flag has been floating at half mast today. The entire college community is sorely grieved over the unfortunate affair.

The bonds of $5,000 required of the four Sophomores charged with bringing about the death of young Rand, have been fixed by friends and relatives of three of the boys. The bond of Oldham, of Raleigh, was fixed by six citizens of Chapel Hill.

The father of Merriman, of Wilmington, who is a wealthy lumber dealer of that city, was bondsman for his son. The father and several friends of Hatch, of Mount Olive, secured his release. The fourth Sophomores charged with participating in the crime, A. H. Styron, of Wilmington, has not late tonight raised his bond and is still under arrest at Pickard's Hotel. The parents of Styron are not living and he is a poor boy who was working his way through college with the intention of entering the ministry. He has the sympathy of a number of citizens in his home town, Wilmington, and efforts are now on foot to secure his release. However, there will be no let-up on the part of the authorities of the institution and State in making a thorough investigation of the tragedy.

A meeting of the executive committee of the board of trustees of the University has been called for Monday in the office of Governor Kitchin.

MUTSUHITO IS LAID TO REST

Body of the Late Emperor of Japan is Placed in Imperial Mausoleum at Monoyama—Many Worship Spirit of Dead.

Kioto, Sept. 14.—The body of the late Emperor Mutsuhito was placed tonight in the imperial mausoleum at Monoyama, an imperial estate about five miles from Kioto. Mutsuhito had been extremely fond of the surrounding scenery and had expressed the desire that this should be his last resting place.

From an early hour in the day great crowds had gathered along the road to Monoyama, to get a glimpse of the funeral procession. The roadway to the imperial tomb was hung with crepe draped on white panels. A double line of soldiers and sailors flanked the route. On the sides of the road had been placed arc lamps, the lights of which were visible for many miles.

On arrival at Monoyama the casket was removed from the train and placed on a funeral palanquin. This was borne by 100 farmers of yesterday's evillage in grey costumes. Approaching the burial hall the panelled doors were thrown open, revealing a stand, on which the casket was placed. Prince Fushimi, cousin of the late Emperor, and Prince Kan-In, the representative of Emperor Yoshihito, and the princes, representing the other members of the imperial family, entered and took up their allotted places, while the officials assembled to the right and left. A black curtain was dropped over the doorway. The top of the palanquin was removed and the casket placed on a carrier which bore it to the tomb, all on the plateau bowing to the ground in final reverence.

Amid prayers and the chanting of dirges the procession moved to the burial hall.

The vault in which the Emperor's body was placed is of great antiquity. It is circular in shape with three steps running around the side. The interior is 15 feet by 20 feet in dimensions, while the outside diameter is 30 feet and a large space of ground has been laid out around it as sacred. Before the coffin was coffered, earth was thrown upon it and the burial hall in which the tomb stands was decorated with white silk curtains, while the great divine trees, the "Sun" and "Moon" banners, caskets of bows and arrows, halberds, shields, gongs and drums were placed all about.

Prince Kan-In read an address to the end and with representatives of the imperial family knelt and worshipped the spirit of the dead. These were followed by the imperial princes and others present. The offerings were then withdrawn and the doors of the burial hall closed, concluding the burial ceremony.

LAST MEMBERS OF ALLEN CLAN TAKEN

Sidna Allen and Wesley Edwards Captured at Des Moines, Iowa.

LOVE AFFAIR LED TO ARREST

Wesley Edwards Was to Have Been Married Last Night to N. C. Woman—Will Return Without Requisition—Stories

Des Moines, Iowa, Sept. 14.—Sidna Allen, leader of the Allen clan, which shot up the Carroll county Court House at Hillsville, Va., March 14th, killing Judge Massey and others, and his nephew, Wesley Edwards, tonight are manacled in cells at the city jail as a result of love affairs which led detectives to them. Both men are en route to Virginia in custody of detectives.

Edwards for the love of whom Miss Maude Iroler, of Mount Airy, N. C., had innocently led detectives to Des Moines, was captured tonight as he was returning to his boarding house, after having worked all day with a paving gang. Just as he boarded a street car, detectives and officers surrounded it. Edwards was trying to escape by crawling through the front end of the car when officers caught him. The arrest of Sidna Allen was effected earlier in the day.

A visit by Edwards to Miss Iroler in her North Carolina home about a month ago, and the accidental loss of a letter put the detectives on the trail. The fugitives had been in Des Moines since April 28th. Allen, under the name of Tom Sayre, worked as a carpenter and Edwards, under the name of Joe Jackson, was employed with a city paving gang.

Allen was arrested at the home of John Cameron, at 11th and Locust streets, where he and his nephew had been rooming, by Detectives Baldwin, Lucas and Mundy, of Roanoke, Va.

The arrest occurred a few minutes after Miss Iroler stepped into the Cameron home to meet Edwards, whom she was to wed tonight, according to an arrangement made when he visited her in North Carolina. Detective Lucas was at her heels. Allen was in an upper room. When informed that visitors wanted to see him, he came downstairs. As he did so Detective Lucas covered him with a revolver and asked him to surrender. Allen hesitated and then threw up his hands, remarking as he did so:

"I guess I'm your man." Allen was handcuffed and placed under a guard of city detectives, while Col. Baldwin and Chief Jenny, of the local department, went in search of Edwards, who was said to be at work in the western part of the city. Apparently Edwards heard that his uncle had been captured because he was not to be found until tonight.

Miss Iroler arrived in Des Moines this morning unaware that on the same train were detectives who wanted her sweetheart. She went straight to the Cameron home, having previously been provided with the address and these officers followed.

Although surprised, she took the arrest of Allen and Edwards with little show or concern.

"Wesley was down home a month ago," she said. "We were to be married. He gave me the money to come to this city and this address. I had no idea that anyone was following me."

Sidna Allen in his cell tonight talked freely of the events of the last few months, but declined to say much concerning his movements immediately after the Court House tragedy. He and Edwards remained in the mountain country of Virginia and North Carolina for about a month and then got over into Kentucky, going to Louisville where they spent several days. Their next stop was in St. Louis, where they remained a week. They had sufficient money for their needs and traveled as first-class passengers.

"I don't know why we came to Des Moines," said Allen, "unless it was that I thought we would be safer here. Several years ago I was in the Klondike and I figured that the officers would think I had gone back there. So we came to Des Moines, and I got work as a carpenter and expected to remain here until it was safe to go back home.

"I would have given myself up long ago if I had thought we could get a square deal. Look what they have done to Floyd, my brother and Claude."

Allen declared the Court House tragedy was the fault of the officers who, he said, began the shooting.

"We heard a few days before Floyd's trial began that Sheriff Webb had bought a hundred rounds of cartridges and had made the remark that he was going to show that Allen gang 'real court,' but we did not expect trouble that day, and there would not have been any if the officers had not begun it."

Allen denied that after the tragedy he had ever sent threats to the officers.

"The trouble in the Court House came as unexpectedly as anything ever could," he continued.

"Floyd Allen was on trial. The evi-

SNEAD KILLS BOYCE.

Old Texas Feud is Renewed—Murderer Surrenders.

Amarillo, Texas, Sept. 14.—Al G. Boyce, Jr., was shot and killed this afternoon by J. B. Snead, with whose wife Boyce eloped to Canada last Fall.

Snead is shortly to stand trial for the murder of Boyce's father, shot at Fort Worth, January 13th, as a result of ill feeling over the elopement of the son, whom Snead shot today.

The presence of Snead in this city was not known until after the shooting. Boyce returned only recently.

The shooting occurred within a block of the business quarter on the principal business street. Shortly after the shooting Snead surrendered to the police, giving up an automatic shotgun and two automatic revolvers.

Bystanders hearing the first shot, turned to see a man, apparently a tramp, with a heavy growth of beard and wearing overalls, advancing to the center of the street, firing on his victim with a shotgun.

Everybody's Going.

To the Grand Theatre, of course. Opening of Winter season tomorrow. **

MISS SADIE JONES ENGAGED

To Marry John Russell Pope, The Architect, of New York

(Special Dispatch to Baltimore Sun).

Newport, R. I., Sept. 13.—Mr. and Mrs. Pembroke Jones announced to friends today the engagement of their only daughter, Miss Sadie Jones, and John Russell Pope, of New York, who is well-known in Newport and New York society circles.

The announcement will come as a surprise to society, and marks the only engagement of the Newport season. Miss Jones has been a foremost member of the younger set here and in New York since and before she was presented at a ball Mr. and Mrs. Pembroke Jones gave four years ago, while the occupied In-chiquin, close to Bailey's Beach.

Miss Jones is a devotee of outdoor sports and has been very much in demand at all the social affairs here and in New York where her parents have long been among prominent entertainers and who own the handsome estate in Bellevue avenue, called Sherwood, where a series of charming dinners and dances were given during the season.

Mr. Pope is considered one of the foremost architects of America, a graduate of the Bozart, in Paris, and who has done much work in New York, Long Island and in Newport, where he has extensive work, including the new residence for Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Duncan, and important work at Washington. Mr. Pope has been in Newport a great deal this season in the week-end parties and as the guest of Commodore and Mrs. Arthur Curtis James, Mr. and Mrs. Pembroke Jones and Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Duncan.

The wedding will be an event of the Fall and likely at the Southern home of Mr. and Mrs. Jones at Arleigh, where many members of the Summer colony have been entertained during the Winter.

Miss Jones received many handsome floral gifts this afternoon.

DELGADO THE WINNER.

Score One to Nothing With City League Pennant Winners.

The first of what is hoped to develop into a series of three or five games was played yesterday afternoon at League Park between the strong Delgado team of ball tossers and the Boys' Brigade team, winners of the city league pennant the past season. The score was one to nothing and the game was everything that the score indicated, fast, snappy and interesting, having been played in just an hour and five minutes.

The crowd was small, it is to be regretted, but enthusiasm was on tap in large measure, and the game was all that could be desired. The features of the game were the playing of L. Lutterloh and Ausley, Lutterloh covering ground around the initial sack and Ausley taking good care of everything around the second corner. Holt, on the slab for Delgado, struck out 11 men and allowed but three hits. Register, on the mound for the pennant winners, retired by the atmospheric route 12 men and also kept the safeties down to three. It is likely that two or more games will be arranged between these teams and, if so, a larger patronage is deserved and will be appreciated by the teams.

The game yesterday was a pitchers' battle and the twirlers on both teams did fine work. The game was won for Delgado by Holt by a long drive to left field in the seventh inning, scoring Lutterloh, who made the only run of the game. Batteries—Delgado, Holt and Parish; Boys' Brigade, D. Register and C. Burnett. Mr. Chas. Dushan, secretary of the Boys' Brigade, handled the indicator and not a kick was registered against his decisions.

at Raleigh. At this meeting President F. P. Venable will render a full report of the death of Rand.

Young Mr. Styron, who had not given bond up to a late hour last night, was formerly secretary to Dr. Geo. G. Thomas, chief surgeon of the Atlantic Coast Line in this city, and is very well known here. He was always remarkably quiet and his friends here were loath to believe that he had been engaged in the frivolities of Sophomore pranks. His friends here did not interest themselves yesterday from the fact that an Associated Press dispatch yesterday morning stated that Gen. Julin S. Carr, of Durham, had volunteered to stand the bonds of the students. Last night, however, when it was learned that Styron had not been so successful in the matter of bond, Dr. Thomas and other friends of the young man bestirred themselves and it is expected that the bond will be arranged today.

J. O. Carr, Esq., of the board of trustees of the University, will leave Monday for the meeting in Raleigh when the distressing incident will be fully investigated.

BARRED FROM MEETING.

Mexicans Who Hissed Madero Not Allowed in Chamber.

Mexico City, Sept. 14.—Barred from the Chamber of Deputies by President Madero, because of the noisy demonstration in which he and his political adherents were hissed and derided and the name of Diaz was frantically cheered, hundreds of residents marched through the streets tonight shouting vivas for Diaz.

Mounted police were ready to disperse the mob, and the entrances to the chamber in which the deputies were in executive session were heavily guarded. The situation is almost identical with that just preceding the fall of Diaz, with the exception that shifts have been made in the cast of characters.

The disorders today had as a basis the same discussion—the seating of doubtful members of the chamber—as yesterday, when the galleries hissed Madero and shouted the praise of Diaz. They were precipitated by the rejection of Francizco Pascual Garia, leader of the Catholic wing, whose election was unquestioned.

A deputy denounced him, saying that no reason for his rejection was required other than that he was a Catholic. The fervid oratory and scenes of disorder on the floor of the chamber were emulated by the galleries. One deputy, fancying himself insulted, drew a pistol to fire when he was seized by a neighbor and overpowered. Another deputy, Pedro De Los Santos, declared that justice and law were forgotten or confounded with personal issues and that more blood would have to be shed, if necessary, to secure justice.

An organized little group marched out of the chamber without the formality of adjournment and left the chamber without a quorum. When the house was reconvened late this afternoon the doors were closed to all but members.

BRYAN OPENS UP.

"Peerless Leader" Speaks for Wilson. Denounces Teddy and Taft.

Denver, Colo., Sept. 14.—Wm. J. Bryan tonight opened his campaign in the West in behalf of Woodrow Wilson and the Democratic National ticket. He denounced both President Taft and Theodore Roosevelt as unworthy of election to the Presidency.

Mr. Bryan spoke vigorously against the third term.

"It would open a door which no man might be able to close," he declared.

Mr. Bryan's argument against Taft was that he is not in harmony with the progressive spirit of the day.

"He already has been repudiated by a majority of his own party," he said, so that he cannot hope to poll more than one-third of the vote of the country if that large a proportion."

The speaker disputed Roosevelt's right to the leadership of the Progressive movement."

"The Democratic party was fighting for all the National reform measures when Mr. Roosevelt was opposing them," he declared.

"Roosevelt's position on the trust question and on the third term are dangerous to the country."

He dwelt on Roosevelt's attitude on the trusts and his relation to George W. Perkins and the United States Steel Corporation.

In advocating the election of Mr. Wilson, Mr. Bryan commended the Democratic platform as representing all the reforms for which the people are ready.

PALMA TROPHY FOR U. S.

The Americans Retain Rifle-Shooting Championship—Canada Loses

Ottawa, Ont., Sept. 14.—The Palma trophy, coveted prize of the rifle-shooting world, was retained by the United States today by a victory for its team here in the match with Canada. Canada failed by a margin of eight points to wrest the trophy from the American riflemen, the score standing: United States, 1,720; Canada, 1,712.

These scores, made out of a possible 1,800, broke all previous Palma trophy match records.

America won the trophy in competition with British, Canadian and Australian teams in 1907, with the score of 1,712. Canada's score today was the best ever made by a second-place team and equalled the previous record for a winner.

REBELS ARE RETREATING

Leaving Sonora They Will Return to Chihuahua

Douglas, Ariz., Sept. 14.—Gen. Sanjines and his column of 800 men with two field pieces and five machine guns who left Agua Prieta early today, presumably to give battle to the rebels, returned to Agua Prieta before sundown. They went as far as Cenisas Springs, 12 miles southeast, which the rebels had evacuated 24 hours before.

Ismael Padilla, the secretary of State of Sonora, as one of Gen. Sanjines' advisers, said after the return of the troops that he was satisfied the rebels had left this part of Sonora and that they would soon return to Chihuahua.

Edward Haymore, an American merchant of Colonia Morelos, who was reported last night to have been murdered by rebels, was brought here late today by Sheriff Wheeler, who made a trip in an automobile across the line in search of him. Haymore had been taken prisoner by Rojas and had been without food for two days when found.

Presley Jones and James Anderson, of Colonia Morelos, who were prisoners of Salazar for five days, arrived here tonight.

INDIANS WITHDRAWN.

Unable to Withstand Heavy Fire From Oaxaca Garrison.

Oaxaca, Mex., Sept. 14.—Unable to withstand the fire of shrapnel from six guns, the leaders of 4,000 Indians withdrew their forces after a battle of five hours for posession of the city yesterday.

The Federal loss is approximately 100 men. It is believed that the rebel loss is much greater. The local garrison numbers about 2,000.

The rebels still occupy vantage points near the city and two suburban cities.

Defiance Sale.

Furniture Defiance Prices.

Matting, Rugs, House Furnishings. Defiance.

On Wednesday, September 11th we will put on our Fourth Annual Sample Sale, and defy competition as to prices, quality, quantity and variety of goods.

Those who have patronized our past sales know what they are and the saving they bring to buyers. To those who have not patronized them, we will explain.

More than 350 of the leading manufacturers send samples of their goods to the New York Exchange each year. The best buyers visit the exchange, which is located in the Grand Central Palace and lasts three weeks. At the close of the exposition our buyer, with the cash, buys hundreds of these samples and other specials — at from 25 to 40 per cent. below the factory price. This enables us to sell these goods at and below what we ourselves or any living man could buy them, in any quantity at the cash. We are the only buyers of these startling bargains, therefore, no one else need try to meet the prices, they cannot do it, they know they cannot.

AN HONOR BRIGHT SALE. At all our sales everything is just as represented No false claims, no misleading statements to deceive. (Watch this space for our guarantee). As the majority of the goods consist of only one of a pattern, we cannot enumerate many. Only come and be convinced of the fact that never before have such values been seen in North Carolina.

We have also bought a few jobs of regular goods, which we will sell at and below cost to add ginger to the sale.

Watch this space Tuesday and Wednesday next for prices and our guarantee. This will be the greatest bargain sale; the greatest money saver ever conducted in Wilmington. People who will need goods in the near future can't miss it. If you miss this sale you will have to pay double for goods no better. Watch this space every day.

WEEK'S NEWS IN LUMBERTON

Court Term Ends—Hotel Improvements — Church People Raise Large Fund—Railroad Changes

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Lumberton, N. C., Sept. 14.—The one-week term of Superior Court which convened Monday to try criminal cases, closed this evening. During the term much business has been disposed of, Judge Bragaw, Solicitor Sinclair and the resident attorneys working day and night. This is Judge Bragaw's second court here, and we do not believe any Judge has ever won the respect and esteem of our people in so high a degree in so short a time. To know Judge Bragaw is to love and admire him. Solicitor Sinclair is so well-known here that he is regarded as one of us. He will spend Sunday with his family in Fayetteville and be in Elizabethtown Monday. Judge Bragaw will spend Sunday here and go to Elizabethtown Monday morning to hold court there next week.

We have been authorized to duplicate the offer of Capt. Paddison which he made in regard to Simmons buttons which were reported to have been discarded when Gov. Kitchin spoke in Sampson. That correspondent was perhaps imposed on just as many others are on different occasions.

Mayor Caldwell says it grieves him much to see such articles concerning our town as appeared in the home paper a few days ago. He says nothing would give him more pleasure than to pave our streets, fill in all the mud holes and cut every sprig of grass and every weed in the town if he only had the money or could in anyway get the cash to have the work done. He says censure is cheap but that it takes money to do things.

Mr. J. F. Parker, of the Fairmont-McDonald section, was in town yesterday and certainly gave discouraging reports of the cotton crop in his section. Mr. Parker is one of the largest and most successful farmers in that section, and he says he does not believe the cotton crop will average over one-half.

Several railroad changes have taken place here during the past few days. Messrs. R. C. Birmingham and Jack Morris, for some time with the V. & C. S., have both resigned, Mr. Birmingham to engage in the brokerage business and Mr. Morris going back to the Seaboard as cashier, which position he held for a long time before going to the V. C. & S. Mr. Jones, who now has charge of the freight and passenger work of the V. C. & S., is assisted by Mr. L. C. Parker, who came up from Wilmington yesterday.

Yesterday was some bad day on automobiles in this section. One car carrying three gentlemen, went to Maxton and on the return trip the driver lost control of the machine and knocked out two panels of a lot fence, causing the car to go to the shop. Another got stuck in a mudhole where it remained three long hours. A third one went into a ditch in the eastern part of town, while a fourth one had two bad spells of balking.

It is predicted by some of the farmers that if the wet, hot weather which has prevailed for several days continues, much damage will be caused to cotton, as the seed will begin sprouting in the open bolls.

Many chickens are now coming to market and the prices continue high. One farmer brought in over 75 yesterday which he sold to one man. Eggs are scarce at any price, though 25 cents is about the prevailing price.

Mr. Jno P. Stansel, who has been spending some time with relatives and friends in this section, returned to Wilmington last night.

Among the many Wilmington visitors who have been here during the week were Messrs. O. P. Cazaux and Clarence French, who were in town last night.

The Lumberton graded school opened Tuesday with a record-breaking attendance for the first day, there being 26 more pupils on the first day than on any previous opening day. The faculty is the same as last session with one exception. One of the teachers who had taught for several sessions resigned to teach elsewhere, and is succeeded by a new teacher.

One of the foremen at the sub-station which is being erected by the Yadkin River Power Company, found it necessary yesterday to use his fist one one of the colored employes and struck with sufficient force to break one of his fingers. He must have hit the fellow on the head. The gentleman, who comes from Virginia, says he is not used to being talked back to by the black man.

Mrs. P. A. Marksham, who for some time conducted a boarding house at the Millsaps home, Seventh and Elm streets but recently discontinued the business, has gone to Philadelphus High School to take charge of the dormitory. Her youngest daughter accompanied her while two other daughters and one son who hold positions here will remain.

The sad death of Rev. R. E. Steele, which occurred here Tuesday afternoon, was most regrettable, and a great shock not only to his family but to a large number of friends. Mr. Steele was one of the most popular ministers that has ever resided here, especially with the young folks. We understand that his family will leave Lumberton but are undecided yet where they will locate.

All Lumberton is rejoiced at the change for the better at the Waverly Hotel. The traveling men seem delighted at the manner in which they are being served. One traveling salesman who spent last Sunday here returned last night accompanied by three others to spend today and Sunday. No pains are spared to please the people, and Lumberton is the logical place for traveling men to spend Sunday.

The collection taken at the First Baptist church last Sunday for the purpose of clearing the church of debt incurred in building, shows the class of people composing the membership. Mr. L. H. Caldwell, who had already given $6,000, headed the list with $3,000 more. Next came Mr. R. D. Caldwell with $2,500; Mr. S. McIntyre, $2,000; Mr. Frank Gough, $1,500, and on down to $100 and perhaps less. Nineteen thousand thirty-three was the total amount raised last Sunday. Rev. C. J. Thompson a former pastor of the church and one of the most earnest and zealous church workers in the State, was present and preached morning and evening. Pastor Durham and his congregation are justly happy.

Theatre-goers are again reminded that Mr. Bert Leigh will be seen here in "Forty-five Minutes From Broadway" in just a little over two weeks. The press notices we have seen of the show pronounce it very fine, and it is a well-known fact that Lumberton people do love good shows.

Workmen are again engaged on the new Methodist church and it is expected to be completed in the near future.

The indications now are that the excursion to be run to Richmond on the 23rd by Capt. Cullen Jones and Mr. W. K. Bethune, will carry a large crowd from this section. The round trip fare from Lumberton is only $3.50.

The Robeson Advance which suspended publication a few weeks ago, has been revived by Mr. G. S. McKenzie, owner of the plant, and came out yesterday. Mr. E. G. Burkhead, a printer from Wilmington, came up to assist Mr. McKenzie in starting up again. He returned to Wilmington last night. The newspaper business, in keeping with other Lumberton enterprises, seems to be prosperous. We understand the Robesonian expects some time next month to install a linotype machine, but the Robesonian is going up hill all the time. And it deserves to succeed as Messrs. Sharp and Bethune are two of the hardest working men we know of, and we rejoice at their prosperity.

We regret exceedingly to learn of the serious illness of Mr. W. S. Cobb, of Lumber Bridge, who is reported to be suffering with typhoid fever.

It was our pleasure to spend a short time in Maxton one day this week. While there we dropped by the Chief office, but the editor says we are a Republican now because we don't see as he does. Call us what you please, but we are betting on Senator Simmons.

Mr. Jas. T. Barker, Jr., who has been on the sick list for several days, was able to return to his work this morning at the Lumberton Drug Company's store.

Mr. A. B. Small who has been sick for several days of typhoid fever, is doing as well as could be expected.

Quite a number of drummers are coming to town these days, most of whom report business as picking up.

Two weeks ago today a white man going by the name of Jno. Hunter, claiming Marion, S. C., as his home, was arrested for being drunk and disorderly. Mayor Caldwell said $10 and costs, $15.45 all told. Hunter said he could not pay it, and he went to jail where he still remains.

Mrs. Rosala Pitman, one of the oldest and most highly esteemed ladies in this section, died at the home of her son-in-law, Mr. A. W. Prevatt, in North Lumberton yesterday morning shortly after midnight. Mrs. Pitman was over 80 years of age. She was the widow of the late Mr. Willie Pitman, of Wishart's township. The funeral services were held this morning and the interment made in the family cemetery at the old home 10 miles from town.

Mr. J. P. Townsend has been losing chickens from his residence in large numbers recently. One night this week he commissioned a couple of steel traps to catch the thief which one of them proceeded to do. It was one of those blood-thirsty old 'possums.

Mr. C. S. Garrell opened up his "City Market" this morning after remaining closed during the Summer.

Our Jewish citizens celebrated their New Year this week. All their stores were closed and appropriate services were held at the synagogue. A good many out-of-town visitors were here.

Several lumber buyers from the Northern markets have been here during the week. They must come frequently as some of them seem to know the location of every little mill as well as the larger ones.

Misses Beck and Frye, who were in the millinery department of Messrs. R. D. Caldwell & Son last season, returned this week and are now busily engaged in making preparations for their Fall opening. Miss Amelia Linkhaw, manager of the millinery department for Messrs. Caldwell & Son, says she is going to show the ladies some of the beauties which are being shown in the picture show.

Mr. Chas. M. Prevatt, returned from Atlanta yesterday morning where he purchased live stock. His first carload came in last night.

Mr. Samuel Branch has been very sick for several days with an attack of fever.

LUMBERTON OFFICER DEAD.

Policeman Gus. Prevatt Died Suddenly—Tigers Are Convicted.

(Special Star Telegram.)

Lumberton, N. C., Sept. 14.—Policeman Gus. Prevatt died suddenly this evening about 6 o'clock. He had not been feeling well for two or three days, but remained on duty at night. This afternoon he arranged for a sub to relieve him tonight and tomorrow night. He went home just before 6 o'clock and died in a short time. Mr. Prevatt was about 33 years old and was held in the highest esteem by all who knew him. He was ever faithful in the discharge of his duties and in his death the town has lost a faithful officer and a good citizen. He is survived by his father, mother, two brothers and five sisters. The funeral arrangements have not yet been made.

Henry Shipman, the negro detective who caused so much trouble among the blind tigers here recently, seems to have done a good job, as every one of them pleaded guilty in the Superior Court, which closed today. Shipman was employed by Chief Redfern to assist in running the colored tigers in. Two of the bunch were employed by the town.

TO INVESTIGATE TRAGEDY

Executive Committee of University Assemble in Raleigh—Government Building Trustees—Other Capitol Notes

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Raleigh, N. C., Sept. 14.—At the request of President F. P. Venable, of the University of North Carolina, Governor Kitchin today called a meeting of the executive committee of the Board of Trustees of the University to be held in the executive office of the Governor Monday, September 16th, at 11 o'clock, to hear a full report of the terrible tragedy at the University Friday morning when Freshman Isaac William Rand was killed in a "hazing frolic" perpetrated by four Sophomores.

There is a persistent report here that the killing was really due to a quarrel that developed in the hazing when one of the hazers used his knife in slashing Rand's throat. However, this lacks verification and it is claimed that the gash in the young man's throat is that of a broken glass rather than a pocket knife. It is pointed out, too, that young Wellons, who was also being hazed, is understood to verify the version of the affair that it was falling on broken glass that inflicted the fatal cut.

In addition to the bids being asked for by the United States government for the fire proofing and remodeling of the postoffice and Federal court building here and the doubling of its capacity by an addition on the west side, there is now a call for bids for furnishing quarters for the postoffice and all the other government offices now in the building while this work is going on. The building, it seems, will have to be vacated for possibly a couple of years. The quarters being sought are for postoffice, Eastern district revenue collector's office, United States Marshal and clerk of the court, offices of the United States District Attorney, the United States Commissioner and Federal Court and offices of Judge Connor. These offers of quarters are to be opened October 1st along with bids for the building, and the offices can be scattered about the city wherever officers to be housed can be suited.

Charters were issued today for four new corporations, as follows:

Wilmington Market and Supply Co., of Wilmington, capital $10,000 authorized and $2,500 subscribed by R. R. Stone, J. Allan Taylor and Martin O'Brien for mercantile business.

The North-South Line, Inc., of Beaufort, capital $10,000 authorized and $2,000 subscribed by E. M. Willis, N. W. Taylor and others for operating river and coatswise boat lines and doing a mercantile business.

The Levi Department Stores, Inc., of Rutherfordton, capital $50,000 by R. M. Levi and others.

The T. W. Thompson Co., of Parkton, capital $10,000 authorized and $2,000 subscribed by T. W. Thompson and others.

The prediction right after the Charlotte and Greensboro Republican conventions that Prof. Chas. L. Coon, nominated by the Bull Moosers for State superintendent of public instruction, would not accept the nomination comes true, Prof. Coon being just out in a card in which he will not accept, would not have the office if tendered him by all three or all four of the parties and that he expects to vote for Wilson and Craig. He says he has a fight to make for remedial legislation in this State for the public school system that he can best make in the ranks and that he proposes to make it impossible for any one to charge in this fight he proposes to make that he is seeking any office. He believes that there are a number of changes that should be made in the educational laws of the State particularly to the end that the direction of school affairs and the selection of books be in the hands of professional teachers, exclusively.

Leaders of the Wake county Bull Moose Progressives held a conference today at which it was decided to call a mass meeting of all Progressives in the county for Saturday, September 28th. They propose to put a full ticket in the field classing it as independent since none but Democrats entered the recent Wake legalized primaries. There were numbers of Bull Meese from out in the county here for today's conference.

JUDGE FOR YOURSELF

Which Is Better—Try An Experiment Or Profit by a Wilmington Citizen's Experience

Something new is an experiment.

Must be proved to be as represented.

The statement of a manufacturer is not convincing proof of merit.

But the endorsement of friends is.

Now supposing you had a bad back,

A Lame, Weak or Aching one,

Would you experiment on it?

You will read of many so-called cures.

Endorsed by strangers from far-away places.

It's different when the endorsement comes from home.

Easy to prove local testimony.

Home endorsement is the proof that backs every box of Doan's Kidney Pills.

Read this case:

S. C. Winner, 215 E. Market St., Wilmington, N. C., says: "I still believe Doan's Kidney Pills to be an excellent kidney medicine and I cheerfully confirm the testimonial I gave in their favor in February, 1908. This remedy has been used in my family, being procured at Bellamy's drug store, and it has given relief from backache and other symptoms of kidney complaint."

For sale by all dealers. Price, 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

A Cure From The Forest

Nature in her wisdom and beneficence has provided, in her great vegetable laboratory, the forest, a cure for most of the ills and ailments of humanity. Work and study have perfected the compounding of these botanical medicines and placed them at our disposal. We rely upon them first because of their ability in curing disease, and next because we can use them with the confidence that such remedies do not injure the system.

PURELY S.S.S VEGETABLE

Among the best of these remedies from the forest is S. S. S., a medicine made entirely of roots, herbs and barks in such combination as to make it the greatest of all blood purifiers and the safest of all tonics. It does not contain the least particle of harmful mineral. S. S. S. cures Rheumatism, Catarrh, Sores and Ulcers, Scrofula, Malaria, Skin Diseases, Contagious Blood Poison and all other diseases dependent on impure blood. As a tonic S. S. S. builds up the system by supplying a sufficient amount of vigor and nourishment to the body. S. S. S. always cures without leaving any unpleasant or injurious effects. It is perfectly safe for young or old. Book on the blood and any medical advice free.

Everybody's overdoing it.

Come on in. The political water is hot and still a-heating.

Everybody who thinks he knows it all is the victim of his own ignorance.

The man who does wrong and doesn't quit it refuses to give himself a square deal.

The G. O. P. elephant may as well pack his trunk and go. It's all over with him but the funeral.

Everybody's doing it wrong according to the politician who wants to get the chance of doing it himself.

The man who wants to run for an office has to have the money or pull somebody's leg. Who's leg do they all pull?

Says the Baltimore Evening Sun: "The tariff keeps up stockings." Yet nobody wants his or her stockings to come down.

According to the numerous freak political ideas in this country the Idlewild Party ought to organize and get in the game.

The fellow who appears to be disinterested perhaps is simply trying to dodge his duty to contribute to the campaign fund.

The innocent bystander who becomes the umpire for a bunch of men arguing politics is no wiser than an individual who butts into an irrepressible family disturbance.

Baltimore is very much annoyed because "young men hang around on the streets." At the same time it must be admitted that Baltimore's reputation for the remarkable attractiveness of a portion of her population causes all the annoyance.

The politician who discounts another's record is banking on gaining something for himself. If there were nothing in it for him the other fellow's record would be as safe as if it were in a safety lock box.

Professor Arthur Holmes, psychologist of the University of Pennsylvania, says: "Long flaring ears are one of the indications of mental deficiency." There are exceptions. The Democratic animule has ears like that but he is long headed and sure-footed.

A Baltimore magistrate fined a man for walking in his stocking feet while carrying his shoes in his hand. There is a curious difference between the conventionalities which prohibit a man from going barefooted in Baltimore and permit him to garb himself in a tow-sack while bathing at Tolchester Beach. It is owing to "where you are at."

The Republicans of Rhode Island have nominated Judge John P. Studley for Governor. The judge is a mighty fine man, but he has a mistaken idea about the justice of taxing the masses to enrich the classes. Goodbye to all men who ball up their chances with the idea that a man is nutty enough to vote to tax himself to make somebody else a multi-millionaire. Protection beneficiaries have got "theirs" and the voters know it.

Roosevelt proposes to regulate the trusts by licensing them to practice monopoly with the consent of the government. Taft proposes to handle the trusts in the same old way that has never busted a one except in his imagination. Woodrow Wilson is opposed to the Roosevelt plan which would make the government recognize monopoly as legal and to the Taft idea which punishes them lightly and leaves them in the field doing business at the same old stand. It is Wilson for us.

DEMOCRATS ON THE JOB.

The Democrats are going to run this government after the 4th of next March and they have to get a billion dollars in revenue to keep Uncle Sam in smoking tobacco. Since the "free list" does not produce any revenue and does not relieve consumers so's you'll notice it, the Democrats will refuse to put raw material on the free list for the benefit of manufacturers whose finished products are protected. Democrats, except a few in North Carolina, have waked up to the fact that free raw materials for monopolists whose finished products are protected against competitors, means double benefits at the expense of the government and the people.

The Democratic party stands for a tariff gradually and cautiously reduced to a revenue producing basis, and it got back to its always defensible position at Baltimore when the platform adopted promised no free list for special interests or to catch the votes of suckers. There will be no free iron ore for the benefit of the Steel monopoly, which otherwise would pay the government no revenut while licensed by the Republican party to exploit the people in a market which it completely monopolizes. Mutt and Jeff probably understand by this time that two dumpings of graft fall into the lap of the iron folks who pay no revenue to the government on their imported ores and at the same time monopolize the protected American market without competition from abroad or at home where trusts shut out competition. That would be giving them "theirs" in double portion and it strikes us that even Jeff might make Mutt see through that proposition.

The Democracy assembled at Baltimore seems to have caught on to the trick by which special interests are served with free material and protected manufactures. Hence, "free lumber", as first proposed in the Aldrich bill, and once promised in the National Democratic platform, is conspicuous by its absence from this campaign's platform. The Democrats proposed free lumber to relieve consumers, but Aldrich proposed it in order to give a free market for American interests who own vast timber interests in Canada, and to give business to the inter-continental railroads who do the freight business. Taft's reciprocity pact also provided that same graft to monopolistic interests, so they could ship lumber free of duty to be sold in a monopolized and protected market or turned into manufactured products which are protected and sold to the people who pay all the taxes and the freight. Free lumber for the benefit of consumers might be a capital idea but free lumber for special interests, going scot-free of revenue for Uncle Sam, is quite a different proposition.

North Carolina's Democratic representatives in the Senate and House saw through the open and shut Aldrich game, and they are not protectionists because they voted for a lumber duty which is turning good revenue into Uncle Sam's strong box in spite of the freight discrimination which is practiced against Southern points by railroads reaching Northern deep water points. The same discrimination is practiced in hauling cotton from Mississippi to New England cheaper than from Mississippi to North Carolina, and in hauling manufactured cottons from New England to San Francisco cheaper than from Georgia points to 'Frisco for the Oriental trade.

The Democratic party is a tariff for revenue party and its plan is to levy the tariff as equitably as possible without discriminating against the North, the South, the East or the West. The Democratic party has abandoned the "free" idea where it benefits special interests and discriminates against the people. When the low tariff for revenue Democratic plan is being carried out it will not have a free list unless it gives relief to consumers as well as manufacturers. It is time, therefore, for Democrats in the South to quit using "free list" talk unless they know that the free list for consumers and the free list for protection beneficiaries are two different propositions. The Democratic party at Baltimore abandoned the idea that the free list is any more Democratic than it is Republican. The Republican free list is for special interests, and the cat in the meal tub can be seen in every instance in which a protectionist favors free trade in any kind of material. A Republican free list that is designed to relieve the masses, would be as great a curiosity as the Republican reciprocity that would be free from design to help special interests.

THE SOUTH CONSUMES MORE COTTON THAN THE NORTH.

In yesterday's Star we referred to the fact that the cotton year, ended with August, was a "record year" in cotton, both in production and consumption. The South produced the greatest cotton crop in its history, having made a crop of 16,138,426 bales. That was 2,312,969 bales more than the greatest crop heretofore produced.

While the South did that the mills of the world consumed more cotton than in any other year. The mills in the United States also increased their consumption, and the cotton milling industry in the South both increased in the number of mills and the number of bales consumed. In all American mills "the year's operations have shown greater activity than ever before in the history of cotton manufacturing." That is what Secretary Hester, of the New Orleans Cotton Exchange, reports, and he is a world's authority.

During the year the mills North and South materially exceeded their largest previous consumption. For the year American mills, North and South, consumed 5,225,000 bales against 4,558,900 bales the previous year. In the consumption of cotton the past year the South led the North, having consumed 2,744,067 bales compared with 2,481,933 bales taken by Northern mills. In his report Colonel Hester says:

"The Southern cotton manufacturing industry has had a season of remarkable activity. After two years of depression, in which many of the mills barely made a new dollar for an old one, nearly every factory for most of the year ran full time, and the only complaint was of scarcity of labor. While a number of mills did not get into full operation until the middle or latter part of September, the season's consumption not only ran ahead of expectations, but broke the record, exceeding the highest previous consumption (that of 1908-09) by 184,194 bales. In all 2,744,067 bales were consumed, against 2,363,616 last year and 2,341,303 the year before, an increase over last year of 380,451 bales, and over the year before of 402,764. Nine new mills are being erected with 115,288 spindles, and 201,194 spindles are in course of addition to the old mills, a total of 316,482 spindles. During August many mills complained of inability to secure cotton of suitable grades; in fact, the monster crop had been so closely marketed that but little except undesirable descriptions remained in the cotton belt. Notwithstanding this, the August consumption reached 225,073 bales, against 157,439 last year and 145,483 the year before. The number of spindles idle throughout the year was 258,320, against 417,752 last year and 216,518 the year before."

Col. Hester reports that during the year the mills of North Carolina consumed 715,647 bales, which led the South in consumption. South Carolina mills came second with 630,524 bales. Georgia mills consumed 511,532 bales, and Alabama's mill consumption was 234,534 bales. The consumption in all other States was from 5,588 up to 81,805, the latter representing Virginia's consumption. Thus we see that the two Carolinas consume more than half the number of bales of cotton taken by the mills of the South. The mills of these two great Southern cotton milling States also consumed one-fourth the cotton manufactured in America. That is highly significant and it indicates how tremendously important are the manufacturing interests of North and South Carolina.

Don't forget it. Old North Carolina is right there with the goods—the goods manufactured from nearly three-quarters of a million bales of cotton produced at home. Her mills also consumed several thousand bales of Egyptian cotton.

Charity covers a multitude of sins, but political sins are covered with mud, often thrown by a fellow who monopolizes a mire.

CURRENT COMMENT.

Farmers who are selling their tobacco on this market express themselves as well pleased with the prices and the interest shown by the people. The crop will hardly average more than 50 per cent. on the average, and it is well enough that prices are better than they have been. From the amount coming in the crop will be all disposed of by or before the first of the year.—Greensboro Record.

Now that it is all over, let us hope that we have had the last "soap-box" primary the people of the Third Congressional district will be harassed with. Primaries of this character not only breed dissension, encourage corruption and ballot box frauds, but they are far from satisfactory as indicating the will of the people. Notwithstanding all the agitation and interest manifested by the immediate partisans of the two candidates, it appears that hardly one-half a vote has been registered. The avowed purpose of the primary being to get an expression of the preferences of a majority of party electorates, fails absolutely when not even a majority go to the polls and vote. We are to have another affair of the same kind at the November election. At that time the Democrats of the State are supposed to cast their ballots for candidates for the United States Senate, State treasurer, secretary of State and comptroller, and which, if all indications do not fail, they are not going to do in any considerable number.—Chattanooga Times.

The disintegration of the Republican and the Roosevelt-Republican-Progressive ticket goes steadily on, the latest refusal to be a nominee on the combined Roosevelt-Republican-Progressive ticket coming from Prof. C. L. Coon, the superintendent of the Wilson graded schools. Mr. Coon's announcement of his refusal to be a candidate on the combined ticket appears in another part of this paper, and in his announcement he makes it plain that an error was made in nominating him on any ticket in support of Roosevelt, for in his letter he announces that he is for Woodrow Wilson and Locke Craig, that it is his intention to vote for them in November. Mr. Coon declares that he would not accept the office of State Superintendent of Public Instruction if he were elected, that he prefers to make the fight for constructive educational legislation outside of the ranks of officeholders, that he does not seek public preferment, that his opinion and policies are not controlled by a desire to gain a public office. He declares he will remain a private in the teaching profession, that he feels he can be of more service in the ranks than elsewhere. Mr. Coon's refusal to serve makes four declinations which have come to the makers of the Charlotte Republican and Greensboro Progressive tickets. Mr. J. H. Cook, of Greensboro, declined to be a candidate for Insurance Commissioner on the Republican ticket; Dr. Cyrus Thompson and Mr. Zeb Vance Walser refused the nomination for Governor on the Progressive combined ticket, and Mr. J. N. Williamson, Jr., refused the nomination for Corporation Commissioner on the same ticket. Those, however, remain with the other parties, while Mr. Coon comes out squarely for Woodrow Wilson and Locke Craig. It was not doubted that he would do so, and he is congratulated on making it clear and plain that his vote will be cast for the men whose election will be a guarantee of a new era in National affairs, and a continuance of Democratic good government in North Carolina.—Raleigh News and Observer.

ROADSIDE DUEL

Man Painfully Shot—Attempted Burglary—A Death

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Kinston, N. C., Sept. 14.—As the result of a roadside duel on the Grifton turnpike at night, Ben Faulkner was painfully, though not fatally shot, his son Guy, slightly wounded, and Doc Wallace and his son, Ed., arrested for the shooting. The elder Faulkner is said to be on the road to recovery, while the boy's wounds were insignificant. At a hearing for bond both Wallaces were released on $1,000 bail by a justice. The affair was the result of bad feeling of long standing. The Wallaces and the Faulkners are neighbors, and live three or four miles from here. The Faulkners and Doc Wallace were going home at the same time, and Ben Faulkner railed at Wallace continually during the trip. It is said that Faulkner was drinking. Wallace turned into his yard, and the elder Faulkner called him out from the house, with the threat to have it out with him then and there. Wallace came out, bringing a gun, and followed by his son, Ed. From the buggy in which he was riding, Ben Faulkner opened fire with a revolver, and this was returned by Wallace with the shotgun. A fusillade followed, and Faulkner received a charge of shot in his head and neck, and the horse which he was driving was hit in the head, while the back of the vehicle was filled with lead. Young Faulkner was struck by scattering shot in the back. His father not firing fast enough to suit him, Ed. Wallace took the gun from the old man's hands and continued the hostilities himself. Neither were hurt.

Mrs. Sarah C. Sutton died at her home in Neuse township of paralysis, having suffered a stroke some four months ago. She was 80 years of age, was of a prominent family, and is survived by five children, Messrs. George, J. W., Robert and Alton, and Mrs. Marietta Hunter. The remains were interred in the old family burying ground in Neuse township.

An attempted burglary, unusually bold and ingenuous, was made in the law office of Fred I. Sutton, secretary of the chamber of commerce, yesterday afternoon. The safe in Mr. Sutton's reception room was entered and the cash box broken into, but its contents, a thousand dollars or more in bonds and other papers, were undisturbed. It is presumed that money was the object sought by the burglars. Finger prints were left in the dust on the safe. The attempt was singularly bold, and the habits of Mr. Sutton were evidently known to the robbers. Some time between noon and 2 o'clock, when the secretary was at dinner, was chosen for the entry. The safe was nearly visible from the street, and that fact made the affair the more daring.

A Lesson From Our Ancestors

In the good old-fashioned days of our grandmothers they depended upon the roots and herbs of the field to relieve disease.

Years have passed by, but science has never been able to improve upon the medicinal effects of these same roots and herbs which are Nature's cure for disease.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, that successful remedy for female ills, had its origin in this way and today tons of roots and herbs are consumed annually in making it.

INDIANS ATTACK OAXACO.

Besiege Mexican Town Which Has an American Colony.

Mexico City, Sept. 14.—Oaxaca, the capital of the State by that name, is reported by delayed messages to have been attacked yesterday by Ixtejepano Indians, estimated to number 6,000. They fell back before the fire of the Federals and are now besieging the town, evidently in attempts to starve out the garrison and inhabitants.

Oaxaca has an American colony. Mexican rebels are believed to be commanding the Indians.

THERE IS A DIFFERENCE

Between Promises and Actual Results.

Promises won't overcome hair trouble. The manufacturers of Newbro's Herpicide promise nothing which is not justified by an intelligent use of this preparation. The desired end ultimately becomes an accomplished fact. This is the reason that Herpicide has thousands of satisfied friends all over the world.

By keeping the scalp clean and healthy and destroying the dandruff germ, Newbro's Herpicide makes beautiful hair. Herpicide prevents the hair from falling and allows it to grow unhindered and naturally except in cases of chronic baldness which is incurable.

FALL AND WINTER WORK

Boys' Brigade Getting Ready for Another Season—Will Increase Its Usefulness in all Departments—Athletics

Indoor seasons at the Boys' Brigade have been productive of great and far-reaching results in the lives of its members and if no more should be accomplished this Winter than has been achieved in the past it would be cause for deep gratification, but the organization never stands upon a past record, instead it strives always to make each year better than the one preceding. This year will be no exception to the rule.

The plans for this season are more elaborate than ever before and will embrace many new features of especial interest to different members so that all will have some feature particularly pleasing and helpful. The physical department will be more effective this Winter than during the past. Mr. J. B. Huntington, general secretary of the Y. M. C. A., has volunteered to assist in this department this Winter, and he will have charge of some of the classes for young men and also one for boys. This will give the Brigade two of the best physical directors in the State and great results should follow.

The Brigade has a splendid corps of gymnasts, many of whom are very proficient in the more fancy and difficult gymnastic features, many good athletes and baseball men, also some of the best basketball men in the city as well as several men who make a good showing on the mat or in the water and it is proposed to give more attention to each of these features than in the past. There will be four different basketball leagues this Winter. Wrestling will also receive some attention as the Brigade has some men who are especially built for this form of sport.

The Lyceum Course for this season is the best ever presented by the Brigade to its members and patrons and that this is fully appreciated is shown by the fact that all the tickets except ten, which are being held, have been sold. The course consists of six entertainments and are all high-class and expensive. These are the Metropolitan Grand Opera Singers, composed of Miss Clara Drew, contralto soloist of the Victor Herbert Band; Miss Ethel Tozier, piano soloist of the Victor Herbert Band; Mr. Charles Hargreaves, tenor of the Metropolitan Opera House, New York; Miss Edna Dunham, operatic soprano, and Mr. Royal Dadman, basso cantate. The second number is the Neil Litchfield Trio, who proved so popular here last season, followed by the Ernest Gamble Concert Party, the Commonwealth Male Quartette, The Goodfellows' Operatic Singers and the Spragues in a dramatic presentation of the unique character, Rip Van Winkle. This is one of the strongest courses ever presented to Wilmington people and far superior to previous Brigade Lyceum Courses.

Rev. Dr. J. M. Wells will conduct his Bible Class on Monday nights as usual, this being the third year of this class and it is voted one of the best features of the Brigade. Sunday afternoon meetings will be conducted as in the past. The first one will be on Sunday afternoon, October 6th, when W. P. Stacy, Esq., will deliver the address.

The regular business meeting will be held on the first Monday night in October, and on the other Monday nights of the month the regular weekly drill of Company B will be held. The junior members will also have gymnasium classes, Bible classes, socials and drills and other features, all of which will go into effect the first of October. Capt. A. J. Burriss will be in charge of the military features of Company C. A new feature this year will be a course of popular educational lectures to be delivered by the professional and business men of the city.

The armory is being thoroughly overhauled and repaired preparatory to the Winter's work and when the first of October arrives all will be in readiness for one of the best Winter's work in the history of this popular institution.

DR. CALDWELL INJURED.

Returning to City, Thrown Through Windshield of Automobile.

Returning to the city early yesterday morning from a professional call to Topsail Sound, which was made in his automobile, an E. M. F. roadster, Dr. Morris M. Caldwell was the victim of a very painful accident when the front axle of his machine struck a stump in the road just below Scott's Hill. As the road was sandy, the machine was under almost full power and the impact was such that Dr. Caldwell was thrown heavily against the steering post of the machine and into the glass windshield, suffering painful lacerations and bruises as the result of which he will be laid up for several days, perhaps longer. People in the neighborhood learned of the accident, the machine having been disabled by a broken axle and other damage, and the injured man was carried to Scott's Hill, where he was made as comfortable as possible until a 'phone message could be sent to Starkey's garage, in this city and he could be brought home, arriving here about 3 o'clock yesterday morning.

A 'phone message from the home of Dr. Caldwell at 9 o'clock last night stated that the doctor was resting very nicely, but was still confined to his bed and probably would be for several days. His many friends hope that no permanent injury may result and that he will soon be able to be out again.

Mr. Clarence Mills was with Dr. Caldwell when the accident occurred; also a boy living in the neighborhood, who was piloting them, but neither Mr. Mills nor the boy was injured.

PRIZES FOR DRAWING

Fidelity Trust and Development Company Announces Contest

"To what extent has the art of free-hand and mechanical drawing been developed by local talent in the public or other schools?" That is the question that was put up to a Star representative by C. E. Greenamyer, president of the Fidelity Trust and Development Company.

"As you know, we are placing Sunset Park on the market," said Mr. Greenamyer, "and, in connection with our plans to properly present the subdivision to the public, we desire to secure a birds-eye view of the entire property and adjacent territory. Our publicity agent, Mr. H. R. Ellsworth, started out to locate a competent local artist to do this work. His persistent efforts in this direction have been without results, though aided by suggestions and personal assistance from our entire official and clerical force."

"We have since made arrangements to secure the sketch from a professional artist," continued Mr. Greenamyer, "but both Mr. Ellsworth and myself firmly believe that somewhere in Wilmington there are, not only one but perhaps several, artists or students who are either by reason of natural talents or educational advantages, fully competent to make such a drawing as we desired. A considerable income awaits such an artist, as there are frequent demands here and elsewhere in this section for such talent. For the purpose of drawing out and encouraging this hidden talent, we make the following offer: For the best available birds-eye view of Sunset Park we will give a cash prize of $20; for the second best we will pay $10, and for every additional drawing submitted which will be considered worthy of public display we will pay $2. The contest will close Saturday, Sept. 21st, and our Mr. Ellsworth will furnish plats of the property and give all desired information to those who decide to submit sketches."

The Star is equally anxious to encourage this local talent, and trusts there will be a liberal response to Mr. Greenamyer's prize offer.

THIRD PYTHIAN RALLY HERE

Big Meeting Will be Held in Wilmington Following Rallies at Greensboro and Goldsboro—Prominent Men Coming

Announcement was made yesterday by Col. Walker Taylor, Grand Chancellor Commander, Knights of Pythias, domain of North Carolina, of the dates for the grand rallies to be held in Greensboro and Goldsboro, and he also announced that a third rally is to be held in Wilmington. The Greensboro rally will be held on the night of November 18th, the Goldsboro rally on the night of November 19th and Wilmington rally on the night of the 20th. Many prominent Pythians from other States will attend the rallies.

Colonel Taylor yesterday received the following letter from Hon. Fred E. Wheaton, Supreme Keeper of Records and Seal:

"Minneapolis, Sept. 10, 1912.

"Hon. Walker Taylor, Grand Chancellor, Knights of Pythias, Wilmington, North Carolina.

"Dear Brother Taylor: I have the honor to acknowledge receipt of your favor of September 7th, in which you advise me that you have fixed the dates for the 'Bible Classes' for November 18th and 19th, and beg to say that these dates are very satisfactory to me. I shall look forward with pleasure to this brief sojourn in your domain and sincerely trust that yqu may be able to secure the attendance of Brother Panniman with his famous lecture.

"If you should happen to meet our mutual, good and kind friend, 'Tom' Meares, please convey to him my very kind regards.

"With all good wishes,

"Sincerely and cordially yours,

"FRED E. WHEATON,

"S. K. R. S."

Colonel Taylor replied to the letter, as follows:

"Wilmington, N. C., Sept. 14, 1912.

"Fred E. Wheaton, Esq., S. K. R. S., Minneapolis Minn

"Dear Brother Wheaton: I am in receipt of yours of the 10th, and note with pleasure your indicated ability to be with us on the 18th and 19th of November. I am in hopes that we can get up a third meeting at Wilmington for the 20th, so please do not figure on too prompt a retirement from the scene of activities and I hope festivities.

"I will commence proper advertising, etc., at once, and hope we can get some good classes.

"Fraternally yours,

"WALKER TAYLOR,

"Grand Chancellor."

It is understood that in a short time Germania Lodge, K. of P., will put in a request for reinstatement, having disorganized some months ago, and it is likely that the lodge will be reinstated on or about November 20th, the date for the local rally.

Mr. Geo. W. Penniman, of Boston, Mass., Supreme Representative from his State, has accepted an invitation to attend the rallies and will deliver an illustrated lecture at each.

Others who will be here, in addition to those named, will be Hon. Brig. S. Young, of Eada, Ohio, Supreme Representative of that State, and Mr. Thos. J. Carling, of Macon, Ga., Supreme Chancellor. Capt. Thos. D. Meares, of Wilmington, Supreme Master of Exchequer, will also attend the rallies.

The rally in Wilmington will be open to the public. There will be a number of addresses and other interesting features. Following the public meeting the ritualistic work will be put on. Much interest is being taken in the rallies throughout the State and indications are that they will be largely attended.

MR. CHADWICK RETURNS.

Business Conditions Satisfactory in New York—Marvel Park.

D. N. Chadwick, Jr., secretary and treasurer of the Fidelity Trust & Development Company, returned Saturday from a four-days' business trip to New York City. Mr. Chadwick reports business conditions in the metropolis as exceedingly satisfactory; the wholesale and retail trade all anticipating a very lively Fall and Winter trade. While in the city Mr. Chadwick took advantage of an opportunity to ride out with a friend to an opening sale of lots in Marvel Park, a new suburban residential property, which was developed along the same lines as Mr. Chadwick's company is now developing its Sunset Park property. Mr. Chadwick states that 214 lots were sold on the opening day, at seemingly high prices, but that practically every lot went to a premium the hour the sale was closed.

MR. STACY'S ADDRESS

"Good Citizenship" Treated In Masterly Way by Local Attorney

Friday evening at 8 o'clock W. P. Stacy, Esq., addressed the B. Y. P. U., of the First Baptist church on "Good Citizenship." Mr. Stacy's address, while not as eloquent as could have been, was one of good moral and spiritual uplift. Mr. Stacy showed that while one could be a good citizen without accepting the Christian belief, it was essential that one should have some higher motive than to make good on this earth in order to be a good citizen. Mr. Stacy's address was considered by those who heard it one of the best on this subject ever delivered in this city.

LARGEST CONTRIBUTOR

Mr. John S. Armstrong Gives $1,000 To Wilson Campaign Fund.

The Baltimore Evening Sun, of September 12th, contains an exceedingly life-like photo-engravure of Mr. John S. Armstrong, formerly of Wilmington but now one of the leaders in financial and business circles in the Monumental City. Above the picture appears the words: "Gave $1,000 to Wilson." Underneath it is this announcement: "John S. Armstrong—This capitalist lives at 1200 Eutaw Place, and is the largest contributor to the campaign fund so far."

Mr. Armstrong is pleasantly remembered in Wilmington and soon after the disastrous bank failure in the city in the early nineties, he came to Wilmington with capital, organized the Wilmington National Bank, and was largely instrumental in restoring the confidence that again set Wilmington on the way to greater achievements. Mr. Armstrong's bank absorbed the Atlantic National Bank and subsequently the Murchison National took over the consolidated banks. The greater Murchison, of which Mr. H. C. McQueen is president, is one of the South's strongest banks.

Mr. Armstrong is a studiedly conservative man and no sudden impulse would move him to contribute to a cause that did not appeal to his careful judgment. Those who know him, therefore, well know that he gave his $1,000 to a cause which has his utmost confidence and earnest approval.

MRS. J. C. MacRAE DEAD

Passed Away Yesterday Evening at Fayetteville, N. C., of Paralysis

A telegram received last night by Mr. William L. Smith, of the Wilmington bar, brought to relatives and friends in this city the distressing news of the death of Mrs. James C. MacRae, widow of the late Judge Jas. C. MacRae, dean of the University Law School and member of one of the State's oldest and most prominent families. Mrs. MacRae passed away at 6 o'clock yesterday evening at her home in Fayetteville, following a stroke of paralysis. She was a sister of Col. John W. Hinsdale, of Raleigh, and a woman of splendid intellectual attainments and rare culture. She had made her home in Fayetteville since the death of her beloved husband at Chapel Hill three years ago. The arrangements for the funeral had not been made last night.

Mrs. MacRae is survived by a large family of sons and daughters who have the profoundest sympathy of hundreds of friends and relatives throughout the State. The sons are: Cameron F. MacRae and James C. MacRae, Esqs., formerly of this city, now of Fayetteville; Theodore MacRae, of Durham; Dr. John MacRae, of Tampa Fla., and Duncan MacRae, of Athens, Ga. The daughters are: Mrs. E. J. Lilly of Fayetteville; Mrs. Robert L. Gray, of Richmond; Mrs. John Lamb, Jr., of Wilson.

Have You Rented Yet?

If not, come to see us and we will do our best to please you, but about everything we have has been rented now. 509 South Fifth street and 706 Castre street, both with seven rooms and all modern conveniences, are all that we have left; something else may turn up this week.

By the way, Mr. Renter, why do you let this house-getting proposition worry you regularly once a year? Why not settle it once and for all? It is mighty near as easy to buy and own as it is to rent. For instance, we have a six-room cottage on South Second street that with a few improvements, would make a most desirable home; $750 cash will float the deal, too. If this does not suit, we can tell you of others that will. We will find the home to please you if it is in town. Talk it over with

DELIGHTFUL DANCE GIVEN AT ACME, N. C.

Acme, N. C., Sept. 14.—Among the many pleasant dances of the season it is doubtful if any has been more thoroughly enjoyed and appreciated by the lovers of this artistic amusement than the one given Thursday night by Messrs. Alexander and Ray, of Atlanta, Ga., in honor of the dancing school of which Mrs. H. McC. Stanford is teacher. The class has a membership of twenty-five some of which at the beginning had only an imaginary idea of the real art of dancing. Mrs. Stanford's ability and efficiency as a teacher is clearly exemplified in the progress of each pupil during the short time they have been under her instruction. It is a safe prediction that before many moons many members of the class will have acquired a thorough knowledge of a graceful dancer through the untiring efforts of their excellent teacher. Music was rendered Thursday night by the Acme string band, by Messrs. Smith, Long, Butler and Hilburn.

THE RECORDER'S COURT.

In the Recorder's court yesterday morning W. L. Taylor, a young white man, charged with the larceny of $100 from his former employer, Mr. C. T. Smaw, who conducts a loan and collection agency, was given a hearing. It is alleged that after severing his connection with the agency, Taylor continued to collect money and appropriate the same to his own use. The Recorder suggested that the case be adjusted by the defendant's paying back the amount said to have been collected by him and paying the costs. Woodus Kellum, Esq., who appeared for Taylor, stated that his client would take an appeal from that judgment. The Recorder stated that if it was the purpose of the defendant to take an appeal the judgment would be three months on the county roads. However, the Recorder finally decided to leave the case open until tomorrow.

A case against Daniel Copsey, charging him with assault and battery, was continued and the defendant required to file a bond of $200. Geo. Verley is the man assaulted and it is stated that he had to have an operation performed on one of his ears as a result of the alleged assault.

A case against George Holland, the negro charged with housebreaking, was continued until Monday. It is alleged that he entered the residence of Mrs. Kenan and stole a pair of opera glasses and a pistol. Holland was identified yesterday by a pawn broker as the negro who tried to pawn a pair of opera glasses a few days ago. The glasses were left in the pawnshop, the negro becoming uneasy under the questions of the pawnbroker. Subsequently the glasses were turned over by the pawnbroker to the police.

SPECIAL VENIRE DRAWN.

Holly Trial Will Begin in Pender County Next Saturday.

The third trial of J. C. Holly, charged with the murder of his ward, Edward Cromwell, will be begun at Burgaw, Pender county, Saturday of this week. Holly was taken yesterday from the jail here to Burgaw, where a special venire of 400 men was drawn from which to select the jury. He was brought back to Wilmington last night to remain in jail here until next Saturday morning. He was in the custody of Jailer John Branch. It required about three hours to draw the venire. The sheriff of Pender county and his deputies will be busy all the week summoning the veniremen. It is believed that the jury will be selected next Saturday and it is thought that not more than three or four days of the following week will be required to hear the evidence. The witnesses in the case have not yet been summoned to appear at Burgaw, but it is presumed that they will be summoned early this week.

C. D. Weeks, Esq., of counsel for the defendant, was present when the venire was drawn. He returned to the city last night. Judge Frank Carter, who is presiding over court there, and Solicitor Henry E. Shaw, came down last night to spend Sunday here. Judge Carter will return to Burgaw tomorrow morning to take up the civil side of the docket, but the solicitor will not return there until the latter part of the week, when the Holly case is taken up.

C., with lower rates from intermediate points according to distance. Two whole days will be allowed in Wilmington or at Wrightsville Beach. This will be perhaps the last excursion of the season and a large crowd is expected as this is one of the most delightful periods at the seashore.

SHIP SUPPLY BUSINESS.

New Concern for Wilmington Was Granted Charter Yesterday.

As told in the telegraph columns of today's Star, the Wilmington Market & Supply Company, of this city, was granted a charter yesterday by the Secretary of State. The authorized capital stock is $10,000 with $2,500 subscribed. The company is chartered to do a ship supply business and to deal in produce and fresh fish. The incorporators are Messrs. R. R. Stone, J. Allan Taylor and Martin O'Brien. There are about a dozen stockholders. The organization meeting will probably be held this week, at which time a suitable building for the business will likely be selected.

"MUTT AND JEFF."

Played to Big Business and Gave General Satisfaction.

"Mutt and Jeff" played to large audiences at the Academy of Music yesterday, matinee and night, and for the most part the theatre-goers were well pleased, though many were of the opinion that the attraction was not as well presented as it was last year. Ed West and Jerry Sullivan as "Mutt" and "Jeff", respectively, sustained the comedy action in good fashion. The other principals bore their parts fairly well. The chorus was pretty and among the number were some good voices.

Two special bargains at Gaylord's this week. New coat suits and Gold Medal dolls. **

WRIGHTSVILLE BEACH

Col. S. B. Taylor, Catherine Lake, N. C.; B. J. Hersman, Richmond, Va., and R. E. Wilkins, Kinston, are among the arrivals yesterday at the Oceanic Hotel.

The Hanover Inn will close after supper this evening, after a most successful season. The Hanover opened in May and has done a splendid business almost ever since the first day. Doubtless a large number from the city will go down this evening to partake of the farewell supper.

Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Huston, who have been spending some time at Wrightsville Beach, returned Friday morning to their home in Greensboro.

The steel pier of the Seashore Hotel is a most popular place with sportsmen from the city and visitors on the beach and the efforts of nearly all are rewarded with a fine catch of fish. Blue fish and trout are biting very freely now and any number of them are caught every day.

This afternoon and evening the usual concerts will be given at Lumina. Attractive programmes have been arranged for both concerts. The attendance is expected to be large, both in the afternoon and evening.

LODGE ORGANIZER CHARGED.

J. W. Herndon, Colored, Arrested Here for Burgaw Authorities.

This morning about 1:30 o'clock on a warrant from Burgaw, N. C., J. W. Herndon, colored, was arrested at his home in this city, Red Cross, between Sixth and Seventh streets, by Special Officers D. W. Jacobs and F. George, charged with false pretense. Herndon is a negro lodge organizer and had recently been up to Burgaw interesting a number of colored people in that section. Some of those with whom he had dealings charged him with false pretense and employed Attorney E. L. Larkins to look after their interests. The arrest of Herndon in Wilmington followed. An officer from the Pender capital will likeme for Herndon today or tomorrow. He was lodged in the police station for the night.

Returns From University.

Mr. L. J. Merriman and son, Leonard Merriman, returned this morning from Chapel Hill, where Mr. Merriman went to investigate and be with his son in the unfortunate affair which developed during the past week and in which he and the family have the sympathy of a host of friends throughout the State. Mr. Merriman stated that bonds had been arranged for all the students involved in the affair except young Stvron and he hoped that Wilmington friends would join him in seeing that the surety is furnished today, if indeed, it was not furnished last night. Young Mr. Merriman has not yet decided as to what he will do and is greatly depressed over the sad tragedy.

Woodrow Wilson starts on his first Western trip the Democratic candidate will have less than 10 days rest until the close of the campaign, according to plans announced here today. On this trip he will meet Speaker Champ Clark at St. Louis and Wm. J. Bryan at Lincoln on October 5th.

COTTON MARKET UNSETTLED

Opening Was Steady at Decline of 4 to 8 Points—Close Was Easy at a Net Decline of 6 to 15 Points—Crop News.

New York, Sept.14.—The cotton market was nervous and unsettled today, with the close easy at a net decline of 4 to 8 points and the market soon sold about 10 to 12 points lower under realizing by yesterday's buyers, selling by spot people and local bear pressure. Reports that the Gulf storm had passed inland over night causing rains in the southern part of the belt, but that it had not been accompanied by damaging winds and was diminishing in force, seemed to make a favorable impression on sentiment and no doubt accounted for much of the early selling. On the other hand, there was some nervousness on account of the appearance of very low temperatures in the Northern belt. The market rallied rather sharply during the middle of the morning with the active months selling up to last night's closing figures. Some of the leading spot people continued to sell on this advance, and the market later turned easy under re-selling by early buyers and more or less general realizing for over the week-end. Closing prices were the lowest of the day.

Receipts 29,714 bales against 24,784 last week and 52,248 last year; for the week 225,000 against 194,505 last week and 328,927 last year. Today's receipts at Galveston 18,751 against 25,969 last year; at New Orleans 395 against 2,091 last year, and at Houston 19,866 against 16,852 last year.

Spot cotton closed quiet. Middling uplands, 11.90; do. gulf, 12.15; no sales.

STOCKS MAKE DULL RECORD

Opening Was Fairly Steady, But Prices Soon Yielded Fractionally—Great Interest in the Bank Statement.

New York, Sept. 14.—All recent records for dullness were broken in the two hours of today's session on the stock exchange. The opening was fairly steady, but the moderate demand having soon been satisfied, prices yielded fractionally, with some recovery at the close.

Trading in the first hour was under 35,000 shares, and the total output was only 58,000. One of the few striking features was a sale of $75,000 New York City 4 1-4 per cent. bonds at 99 7-8, the recent low quotation.

Interest in the bank statement, which was not issued until the close of the market, far exceeded all other considerations. The statement showed an actual loan contraction of $27,453,000 and a cash loss of $7,200,000 practically, which was in line with general estimates. The statement based on averages showed a smaller decrease in the loans, but the cash loss was greater by almost $3,000,000. Actual excess cash reserves are now $3,619,750, as against $2,751,100 a week ago.

Non-member banks and trust companies also reduced loans by over $2,300,000, but gained $1,800,000 cash.

United States 3s and Panama 3s advanced 1-4 per cent. on call during the week. Total sales of bonds, par value, $700,000. Sales 57,500, including C. & O., 200; L. & N. 400; N. & W, 100; Southern 1,200; pfd. 3,800; Va. C. C. 1,000.

WEEKLY COTTON REVIEW.

Net Result of Week's Trading Was About Unchanged.

New Orleans, Sept. 14.—The net results of the week's trading in cotton was an advance of one point to a decline of two points on most active months in futures. The high prices were made Friday and low prices Wednesday. At the highest, prices were 19 to 24 points over last week's close; the lowest 45 to 49 points under. The range was 70 to 73 points.

In the early week the market had a sagging tendency on reports from the Eastern portion of the belt, where rains seemed to benefit the crop. Later the decline turned into an advance on reports of deterioration, especially in the Western belt and the presence of a tropical storm, which for a time was feared would damage cotton.

A bullish feature of the week was the absence of rain in Texas and Oklahoma. Premature opening was reported in many sections and shedding in others. It was generally considered at the end of the week that the crop had deteriorated considerably. Bears say this is the usual end of the season falling off and natural with the crop reaching maturity. Nevertheless, it had a bullish effect.

In spots a net advance of one-sixteenth was made on middling, closing at 11 7-16 against 1 3-8 last week and 11 7-8 this week last year.

Sales 1,018 bales against 540 last week and 2,116 this week last year; sales amounted to 3,950 against 1,650 last week.

DEBATING PROPOSITION.

Coal Operators and Miners Will Answer Governor Monday.

Charleston, W. Va., Sept. 14.—Both the coal operators and miners tonight notified Governor Glasscock that they will deliver to him their answer at noon Monday as to whether they will accept a proposition presented to them by him today to bring about the settlement of the strike in the Kanawha coal fields by the means of arbitration.

Although this was pay day in the coal fields, no serious trouble had been reported up to a late hour. The proposition presented to the miners and operators by the Governor in brief is:

"The men shall return to work at once on the same terms that existed when they went on strike; the guard system shall be abandoned and all guns shall be turned over to Adjutant General Elliott, who will give a receipt therefor. The operators and miners are to select an arbitrator to represent each side and the two named by them shall select a third. If the two fail to agree the third is to be chosen by the Governor of an adjoining State or by the Secretary of Labor and Commerce.

SUPPLY POST AT EL PASO.

Maj. Gen. Wood Authorizes It—Revolution Prolonged.

Washington, Sept. 14.—Major Gen. Leonard Wood, chief of staff of the army, today ordered a general army supply post established at El Paso, Texas.

Conditions in Mexico are reported to the War Department as chaotic. Starvation during the coming Winter threatens to add to the suffering. The rural population has been unable to plant or cultivate crops.

Gen. Wood's action is taken to indicate that officials here believe the revolution will be protracted.

In the olden days there was plain living and high thinking, but today there is high living and no thinking.

YOUNG men who go away to college or the university, or who are fortunate enough to live where the college or university is, are just the sort of men that we're ready for with our new models in

Hart Schaffner & Marx Varsity Line

You have no idea—can't have unless you see them—how far in advance of all other "young men's styles" these are. The fashions are lively, snappy, stunning; the fabrics are chosen for young tastes in color and pattern; but one important point is—the cloths are all-wool; and the tailoring is such that the clothes keep shape. NO TAILOR CAN TOUCH THEM AT DOUBLE THE PRICE.

POLITICS IN FIFTH DISTRICT

Maj. Stedman Opens Campaign at Gibsonville—Republican Nominee—Wilson, Marshall and Craig Club Holds Rally.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Greensboro, N. C., Sept. 14.—The Wilson-Marshall-Craig Club, with a membership of more than 500, will be formally organized at a Democratic rally called to be held in the court house tonight. This club during the period of organization has formerly contributed more than $100 to the Wilson campaign fund and at tonight's meeting it is expected that several hundred dollars will be raised. A campaign to be waged is expected to run the membership up to 1,500 in a few days.

Maj. Charles M. Stedman opened his campaign for re-election to Congress at Gibsonville this afternoon, a number of politicians going from here to attend the opening. It was at Gibsonville two years ago that Maj. Stedman opened the campaign which sent him to Congress and redeemed the district from Republican representation, John M. Morehead having slipped in on a fluke two years prior.

Rufe Hargrove, who has represented Surry in the Legislature, looms up bright as the Republican nominee for Congress in this district, the convention of which has been called to meet here Tuesday. Mr. Hargrove is making an active fight for the nomination and since no other candidates are out it is more than likely that he will be the one chosen for Maj. Stedman to defeat.

Republican Committee

Greensboro, N. C., Sept. 14.—At a well attended meeting of the State executive committee of the Republican organization here this afternoon the committee authorized its candidate for Governor, Thos. Settle, to direct an invitation or challenge to Locke Craig, the Democratic nominee for Governor, to have a joint debate on the political issues dividing the two parties. The form of challenge and the terms of same were left with Settle to decide. No suggestion was made for challenging the Progressive Roosevelt candidate for Governor, Iredell Meares. All matters regarding the conduct of the campaign, filling vacancies on the ticket, etc., were left to the campaign committee. This committee, as selected will at once establish State headquarters in Greensboro, Winston or Charlotte and begin the work of the campaign. Following is the committee: A. E. Holton, chairman; Gilliam Grissom, secretary; William J. Andrews, D. W. Patrick, B. C. Snarpe, with State Chairman and National Committeeman Duncan, as ex officio members. This committee was also authorized to endorse the electors to be selected by district conventions when held.

Chairman Morehead named the following as the second members of the State committee from each district, the State convention having selected the other members: First district, A. S. Mitchell, Bertie county; Second, J. R. Gaskill, Edgecombe; Third, J. C. Rice, Pamlico; Fourth, William J. Andrews, Wake; Fifth, P. C. Sharpe, Guilford; Sixth, I. B. Tucker Columbus; Seventh, Clarence Call, Wilkes; Eighth, J. J. Mott, Iredell; Ninth, Ed. M. Bell; Tenth, R. W. Harris.

A Charlotte hotel proprietor offered the committee a suite of rooms free of charge as an inducement to have Republican headquarters there.

dence was overwhelmingly in his favor. Yet they convicted him.

"I started away from Hillsville the night of the trouble. The officers were within 15 feet of me, but they did not know it. I thought for a while I would go back, but when I heard there were orders out to shoot me on sight I decided I'd better get out of that country.

"I was writing when the detectives came today. I had heard that Wesley and his girl were to be married and that she was coming here. If he hadn't been a blamed fool and gone back to Virginia and dropped that letter we wouldn't be in this fix tonight. I don't blame the girl. I don't know her, but her mother, Mrs. Frank Iroler, was once my sweetheart."

Allen was much interested as to what would be the reception of himself and Edwards when they returned home. The two men were subjected to the Bertillon measurements tonight.

Report of Arrest Confirmed

Greensboro, N. C., Sept. 14.—J. C. Buxton, of Winston-Salem, counsel for Sidna Allen in his recent counterfeiting cases prior to the Hillsville tragedy, tonight confirmed the report of the arrest of Allen in Iowa. Immediately after the Hillsville affair relatives of Allen retained Mr. Buxton to look after his interests.

Something of Edwards' Sweetheart

Roanoke, Va., Sept. 14.—Victor Allen, acquitted yesterday in Wytheville of complicity in the murder of Judge Massey and other court officers at Hillsville, today told something regarding his knowledge of Miss Maude Iroler, of Cana, Carroll county.

The Irolers are Carroll county people who moved to the south side of the Blue Ridge about a year ago, not far from the home of the Allens. She is 18 years old and exceedingly attractive. A year ago Wesley Edwards met her and it was love at first sight. The affair was mutual and it was understood that they were engaged to be married sometime before the shooting. The father of the girl is a prosperous farmer. Miss Iroler has several brothers and a younger sister. The Baldwins heard that Miss Iroler was going to Des Moines and they left Thursday for that place, going on the same train with the young woman.

Victor Allen would have nothing to say concerning the capture of Sidna Allen and Wesley Edwards.

The head of the detective agency is not here and no official report has been received in the office further than the bare fact of the capture.

BAILEY AT WADESBORO.

Strong Presentation of the Cause of U. S. Senator F. M. Simmons.

(Special Star Telegram.)

Wadesboro, N. C., Sept. 14.—J. W. Bailey, of the Raleigh bar, spoke in the court house here today in the interest of Senator Simmons' candidacy. He was heard by a good crowd of representative citizens from all parts of the county and the applause given him showed that he interested his hearers. Mr. Bailey was introduced by Mr. L. D. Robinson, formerly solicitor of this district, and one of Simmons' warmest supporters in the county. Mr. J. D. Horne was chairman of the meeting which organized a Simmons Club with Mr. T. A. Horne, president; L. D. Robinson, vice president, and W. M. Morton, secretary.

Mr. Robinson then introduced Mr. Bailey stating that in this Senatorial race all departments of the State government were represented. He said he had heard in Anson the executive and judicial departments and now came the opportunity of hearing from the legislative wing of the ticket. He complimented Mr. Bailey in a few well chosen words and the speaking of the occasion began.

Mr. Bailey first voiced his confidence in the election of Woodrow Wilson and that knightly gentleman, Locke Craig. Speaking then of the National Congress he said the Democratic party was now within five votes of having control of that body while the House is already Democratic. He declared that in the rejuvenated Democratic Senate the South would for the first time since the Civil War furnish the leader and that North Carolina for the first time in her history will send that leader, the Hon. F. M. Simmons.

"When the people read Simmons' record for themselves, they will return him. It would be folly to put a novice at the foot of the ladder when we have an opportunity of putting a true and tried hand at the very top. Mr. Bailey offered to answer any charge any one present might bring against Simmons. He said Simmons was running on his record and not away from it. The speaker said he came here at his own expense; that he owed Simmons nothing and was not asked by that gentleman to speak for him. He regretted that the chief justice of the State should set a precedent by stepping down from his high office without resigning his position to canvass the State for votes for another office. The speaker showed up the falsity of the attacks that have been made against Simmons and explained to the satisfaction of his audience the votes about which his opponents have said so much. Simmons is standing on the platform written by the progressive Kern and endorsed by Bryan, Woodrow Wilson, and other progressives. He stands for what the Democratic party stands for and does not try to go ahead of it or only part of the way. He showed how Simmons has succeeded in doing more for the State than any other Senator ever sent to Washington in the matter of appropriations. The Republicans, he said, have hated him for 25 years and tried in every way possible to kill his influence, surely he would not try now to Republicanize the State when it would mean his own political grave. He replied at length to the charges that Simmons is out of harmony with his party and showed that he is the ranking member of his party for the chairmanship of the finance committee and that he reached this position by faithful service.

It was a clear cut speech, full of logic and facts that could not be denied. It strengthened and added to the Simmons ranks.

Twenty-five years of successful dry goods merchandising in the City by the Sea!

A quarter of a century in mercantile achievement and accomplishment, unparalleled in the State!

These are in brief some of the reasons why it is eminently proper this week for Mr. C. W. Polvogt, the proprietor, and the C. W. Polvogt Co., of which he is the head, to celebrate the silver anniversary of their business advent into the commercial life of Wilmington. And they are going to do it, too, with one of the largest and most sensational sales put on by a dry goods establishment the current year. The sale is announced elsewhere in today's paper. This article has to do only with the history of one of the most successful business enterprises in the history of the city and a sketch of the career of the man who has been and still is behind the guns—Mr. Carl W. Polvogt. Starting with the late M. M. Katz, in 1880, as a bundle boy at $2.00 a week, he has by successive steps paved the way to successful business enterprise that is perhaps without equal in dry goods merchandising in North Carolina. By industry, perseverance, good business judgment, keen perception and a constant addition to the store of his knowledge, he proceeded step by step up the ladder until six years later he formed a co-partnership with Mr. John H. Rehder under the firm name of Polvogt & Rehder, occupying one of the stores now belonging to the firm of J. H. Rehder & Co., on North Fourth street. After being associated with Mr. Rehder for about five years, Mr. Katz's health began to fail and he asked Mr. Polvogt to take an interest in his business, which he did, forming the partnership of Katz & Polvogt. After Mr. Katz's death and the removal of his son to another city, Mr. Polvogt became the sole owner of the business and in 1896 the C. W. Polvogt Company was organized with C. W. Polvogt as president and manager. From that day until this, expansion has been the policy of the company and it now occupies one of the very handsomest stores in the State at 123 and 125 North Front street, immediately in front of the postoffice and near the Orton Hotel. The business was founded by Mr. Katz as long ago as 1845, and it has never wavered in popular esteem and approval.

For some time and up until about eight years ago, the business was carried on at 9 North Front street, but the expansion of the operations necessitated removal to more extensive and convenient premises. The present location was secured, and the accommodations now include three floors and a balcony, in the building utilized, which is of 38x128 feet. The firm, however, is now about to also take over adjoining premises. The principal departments of the house are dry goods and notions, millinery, ladies' coats and suits, and the largest carpet department in North Carolina. Particular attention is due to the millinery and suit departments. The house has the services of two expert Northern trimmers, and a skilled modeler in the suit department, and these ladies pay periodical visits to New York so as to obtain the latest fashions. Mr. Polvogt, himself, goes frequently to the metropolis to make purchases. Also the concern has an office there located at 31 Union Square. The house transacts a strictly retail business, but the mail order department receives especial attention, orders coming from various parts of North and South Carolina. The stocks are very complete in all lines and there is to be found here the largest stock of carpets of all grades, including also rugs, tapestries, curtains, etc. The house makes a specialty of this department and has particularly good facilities for displaying the products, which they procure direct from manufacturers in large quantities. It is worth while to mention that Mr. Polvogt when he started on his own account, had but very limited resources, indeed but a few hundred dollars. His business has been built up to its present proportions by hard work, close attention to details, giving full value for money and above all giving satisfaction to patrons even at a sacrifice. This business policy has resulted in the full confidence of the public and a consolidation of a patronage which increases steadily with every succeeding year of the house's operations.

MR. CARL W. POLVOGT.

THE SUNDAY MAIL.

Reason for It Not so Pious as It Looks. Revenue Measure.

(From Charity and Children.)

In the expiring hours of Congress a little piece of legislation slipped through both houses and has been signed by the President. This law prohibits the delivery of mail by postoffices of the first and second class unless it is put in the special delivery class, which means that the government gets ten cents for delivering it. This is not moral reform. It is simply a cunning form of graft in the name of morality. The reason given for this proceeding is "to reduce the Sunday work to a minimum so that as many of the employes as possible may enjoy a complete day of rest." That looks pious, but it is not so pious as it looks. In order to attend to the special delivery mail the whole mass must be inspected, and very few of the regular force in the postoffice can be dispensed with. The government is not over solicitous about the moral welfare of its employes anyhow. The main motive for this sly little piece of legislation was probably to increase the revenue by forcing the patrons of the postoffice to fork over an extra ten cents for each letter they get on Sunday. The Sunday paper will not be seriously affected, except in towns other than those in which they are published, as they are delivered by carriers and not through the postoffice. One gleam of light through the darkness and that is that the children in small towns will not have their minds distracted by the hideous "funny" paper that are a nuisance on any day of the week much more on Sunday.

The objections to the whole transaction is not that the people who read and answer their mail on Sunday are to be deprived of that privilege (that is not an objection at all, but a benefit) but the hypocrisy of our lawmakers about the sanctity of the Sabbath, but who are really interested in the money they can make out of the Sabbath day.

HOG CHOLERA REMEDY.

Georgia Man Who Says He Can Cure The Malady.

Mrs. E. D. Napier of Milledgeville sends the following remedy for hog cholera to the Macon Telegraph, which she has used with success. Whenever the cholera appears in her neighborhood she begins at once to give the remedy, and never lost a hog that was treated. Mrs. Napier raises a great many hogs on her Black Lake plantation, near Millidgeville. She obtained the remedy from Dr. T. C. Dodge. The remedy:

Arsenic, one-half pound; cape aloes, one-half pound; blue vitrol, one-fourth pound; black antimony, one ounce; grind and mix well before using. Directions: Sick hogs in all cases to be put in separate pens from the well ones; the pens should be kept dry and only five to eight hogs in a pen. Feed nothing but dry feed, no water, only the slop containing the remedy, until cured. When hogs refuse to eat turn them on their backs and with a long spoon put the medicine down their throats. Dose for hog, one teaspoonful three times a day for three days, then miss a day and repeat the dose until cured. For a preventive, one teaspoonful once a week will keep your hogs in a healthy condition. I can place one well hog in a pen full of sick ones, and with this remedy keep him well. Let no other stock have access to this remedy, as it is deadly poison to anything but a hog. I have had cows to die from licking the troughs weeks after the remedy had been used in the trough. Dr. Dodge says that for years he sold the remedy, and got $1 a head for treating the hogs and paid the owner 10 cents a pound for every hog that dies after the remedy had been taken. Too much care cannot be taken in using the remedy, as it is a deadly poison. I have given the recipe to a great many people and hope that you will publish it and that it will help to stamp the cholera out.

SLICING OFF CITY FRONTS

New York Gains Ten Acres of Land. Curious Tabulation of Subjects of Conversation—Stockbrokers Complain.

New York, Sept. 14.—The report just issued by the city engineers that the widening of the 22 miles of New York's busiest streets is nearing completion brings to light the curious fact that the anguished protests of owners of encroaching property have given way to sincere, if reluctant admissions, that only benefit has come from slicing off obtruding doorways, port cocheres, stoops, areaways and the like.

Property owners and shop keepers are being compelled to expend about $5,000,000 to meet the city's ukase making the building line the deadline on certain streets with much resulting lamentation. The change of heart is due to the fact that dwellings and shops minus former obstructing stoops, railings and cellar entrances rent to much greater advantage. Taken in the aggregate Father Knickerbocker's efforts to secure more elbow room is of a most comprehensive nature. From the Battery to 59th street more than 50 streets have undergone radical changes. The whole work of reclamation as undertaken so far is equal to a strip of land ten feet wide and eight miles long, or about 425,000 feet. Some idea of the value of this area may be had when it is remembered that the assessed value of this particular eight miles is from $1,000 to $10,000 per front foot. Sentimentalists refuse to take comfort from financial and traffic gains wrought by the city's street widening programme, however, and many mourn the absence of cherished architectural landmarks. Old timers deplore the shorn appearance of 23rd street's high-stooped brown stores and yards while habitues of the Fifth Avenue and Broadway hotels find them sadly changed, minus balconies, facades and ornamental columns. Even Tammany Hall suffered while patrons of the famous old Academy of Music find it bewilderingly different. The power of the Standard Oil availed nothing for the home of the octopus lost

GARDEN CITY.

The absolute success of this high-class suburb was demonstrated in that on the opening day there were 34 lots, (more than half) sold to as many buyers, and while we had rain the first three days of the past week, this subdivision is still dry, thoroughly drained, makes it a splendid residential location, with artesian water to your lot, electric lights, sidewalks, paved streets, telephone service, and a number of other conveniences. It is a delightful place to live. Have a few of these desirable lots left, can offer on easy terms or liberal discount for cash. Already the past week purchasers have made money on their investment and you can do the same. Telephone for an engagement and let us show you this desirable property.

FARMS.

I maintain a special farm department and am prepared to give this branch close attention. Within the next ten days we will offer a number of 10-acre farms, right at Wrightsboro church and school, known as the Woolvin land, every inch of which is in that great trucking belt and United States government soil surveys show it to be the best of trucking land known as Norfolk fine Sandy Loam. Each farm facing Castle Haynes road. Each farm contains nothing but good land. The values are sure to increase.

With the assistance of a traiterous male accomplice, a New York club woman has discovered what it is men talk about in the seclusion of their clubs or elsewhere when foregathered with none of the opposite sex about. The traiterous male in question, a stenographer, made verbatim reports of a number of club room confabs totalling 290,117 words. The speakers included doctors, clergymen, editors, jewelers, merchants, butchers, coal passers and representatives of many other professions and trades. In order to secure conclusive evidence the espionage covered the untrammeled discussions of the classes and the masses. An analysis shows that sports was the chief topic of conversation and that other topics followed in the order given, their standing being determined by the number of words scored by each. It is worthy of note that while more conversation hinged upon sport than upon women, the former included the Olympic games. Without this unusual advantage the result would doubtless have been different.

A night school for stock brokers is the novel suggestion which has been made here which may yet become a reality. Of course, it is not proposed to teach them to read, write or do simple sums in arithmetic, but facilitate their efforts in securing information on every sort of subject. A curious development of the last few years, as pointed out by a prominent dealer in securities, is that the investing public expects the broker to be a regular encyclopedia of information on every conceivable subject. Where the investor formerly either took somebody's advice or acted on his own initiative he now demands information before investing on many points which a few years ago would have hardly been considered as bearing on the subject at all. In illustration of this new spirit, C. C. Hamlin, writing in Moody's Magazine, cites a striking example of the possible effect on railroad securities of a matter which the average person has heretofore failed to connect with them. "A good illustration," he says, "both because of the importance and because of the general failure to understand its connection with railroad securities is the proposal to remove the tariff on raw sugar imported into this country. On the one hand we have the argument that the removal of the tariff might work a saving to the consumer of about 50 cents a year per capita; on the other the practical certainty that such a removal would mark the end of sugar production in this country." Since the sugar beet has been the means of greatly increasing yields of other crops grown in rotation with it both here and abroad, thus making for increased traffic as well as helping the farmer, its relation to railroad securities, Mr. Hamlin points out, becomes apparent since any agency tending to reduce production per unit of cultivated area by destroying this industry would also tend to reduce traffic. Of course, the interest of the farmer in this matter is even more important, but it affords a striking illustration of the many angles on which a broker must be informed nowadays if he is to answer the broadsides of questions hurled at him by customers.

A new high mark was established for New York as a port of entry this week when 10,000 persons stepped ashore from seven trans-Atlantic liners, one boat from Bermuda and seven coasters and ships from South America. Ellis Island, habitually one of the busiest spots in New York, literally swarmed with aliens of many nationalities while customs facilities were taxed to the utmost by homecoming Americans. To those familiar with existing conditions there is much that is pathetic in such record days. According to authorities on New York's sociological peculiarities the alien's happiest day is the date of his entry into the city. It is then that his hopes are highesst. Disillusionment begins almost at once. The average alien gravitates naturally to the quarter devoted to those of his own race and in many instances his life is lived out under conditions as far as may be from those of his dreams. It is the second generation which realizes the hopes of the adult immigrant, according to social workers. The public school is the key to Americanism for the children of immigrant parents and once imbued with our customs and ideas the new generation deserts the native quarter and moves uptown. This is the explanation advanced for the fact, often remarked by visitors, that only young people are to be found in the uptown apartments given over to those of foreign extraction.

That some sort of compact and easily handled seine will become part of the equipment of the city's white wings, as the members of the street cleaning department are called, at no distant day, seems by no means unreasonable. Fish are to be caught in New York's streets and there is evidence to prove it. The latest haul occurred on 132nd street, between Fifth and Lenox avenues. The turning on of a hydrant by a member of the street cleaning department caused the phenomenon for instead of plain Croton water there issued a stream alive with white perch, some measuring six inches. Almost as rapidly as the fish were shot into the asphalt they were seized upon by a host of small boys, many urchins garnering strings of a dozen prime perch. With the high cost of living keenly in mind the hydrant man threw dignity to the winds and himself secured a mess of perch. It is expected that not a few hydrants in the favored locality will be turned on without the assistance of the street cleaning department. —LONGACRE.

EIGHT HUNDRED MILLION

That Number of Feet of Timber Sold In California Forest

Washington, D. C., Sept. 14.—Chief Forester Graves is on his way to San Francisco to make final arrangements under which a California lumber company will purchase 800 million feet of timber on the Sierra National Forest. The timber has already been awarded, after public advertisement, to the highest bidder, but under the terms of the advertisement the final signing of the contract will not take place until the company has been shown on the ground what timber the government will reserve from cutting in order to preserve good forest conditions and provide for reproduction.

The company will be allowed its full 800 million feet, but naturally it will not be allowed to cut clean. As a rule the Forest Service reserves something like one-third of the forest stand in applying forestry on government holdings. A marking board made up of one man sent from Washington, one from the District office in San Francisco, and the local Forest Supervisor will carefully mark a sample area, to show how the restrictions on cutting will be applied. Representatives of the company will then go over this area, after which Chief Forester Graves and his assistants will, it is expected, make final arrangements with the company in San Francisco, and the contract of sale will be signed.

"The Forest Service," said Mr. Graves, in speaking of this sale, "has received a number of inquiries whether in selling so much timber to a single purchased the government may not be opening the way to monopolistic control of local lumber markets. Other correspondents are disturbed lest the sale prove a bad bargain for the government through the rise in value of the timber in the twenty-two years during which the company will cut.

"Such large and long-time sales of National Forest timber as that to the California company are a new development in the Forest Service. Great bodies of mature but inaccessible timber can be put on the market only if sale contracts are let on terms which will justify a very heavy initial investment in transportation facilities. In entering ito such contracts, however, special safeguards to protect the public against monopoly and to prevent an undue speculative profit to the purchaser are employed.

"The National Forests contain in all, the equivalent of nearly 600 billion feet of timber now of merchantable size, besides young growth for future harvest. Because of its remoteness from market and the wild, mountainous country, without transportation facilities, in which most of it lies, only a small percentage can now be sold on any terms. Most of it would cost more to get it out than it would bring. The sale of less than one-fifth of one per cent of our total supply to one company leaves plenty of room for competition by other companies.

"The timber which has been sold to the California company lies well back in the Sierra Nevada mountains and will require the construction of 70 miles of standard-gauge railroad to open up the area. Since this road will also open up other National Forest timber and will be a common carrier, it creates another safeguard against monopoly. The company is given a cutting period of twenty-two years to remove the timber, besides an additional two years for the construction of logging and manufacturing facilities. The sale was publicly advertised for six months in order to give an opportunity for all who wished to compete for the contract to make bids, as is done in all large National Forest sales.

"No business organization would undertake the heavy investment necessary in such cases unless the handling of a large body of timber and a sufficient period in which to remove it under practicable logging conditions are assured. The great difficulty in making such long-term sales is to establish a price which will be fair to both sides. No one can foresee future conditions well enough to know what stumpage will be worth ten, fifteen or twenty years hence.

"Consequently the terms of sale provide for the readjustment of stumpage prices every five years. The basis for fixing the prices will be, in each case, the prices of manufactured lumber in the markets where the timber is sold during the preceding two years.

"For several years the Forest Service has been selling in the neighborhood of a million dollars worth of National Forest stumpage per year, but this combined with what is cut for free use is only about one-eighth of what might be cut without reducing the permanent stock of the forests. The supply will be kept up through growth. By making long-term sales it will be possible greatly to increase the amount available for present needs of the timber consuming public, without endangering future supplies through overcutting. It will always remain true, however, that vastly the greater part of our timber sales will be to small purchasers, who are favored wherever possible. Monopoly is impossible as long as the door is kept open for such purchasers. Out of over 5,600 sales made in the fiscal year 1911, about forty were for over $5,000 worth of timber to a single purchaser."

Many a man who will eat his wife's hard and heavy biscuits makes himself solid with her.

Why Have "Nerves?"

This is the reason why women have "nerves." When thoughts begin to grow cloudy and uncertain, impulses lag and the warnings of pain and distress are sent like flying messages throughout limbs and frame, straightway, nine times in ten, a woman will lay the cause of the trouble to some defect at the point where she first felt it. Is it a headache, a backache, a sensation of irritability or twitching and uncontrollable nervousness, something must be wrong with the head or back, a woman naturally says, but all the time the real trouble very often centers in the womanly organs. In nine cases out of ten the seat of the difficulty is here, and a woman should take rational treatment for its cure. The local disorder and inflammation of the delicate special organs of the sex should be treated steadily and systematically.

Dr. Pierce, during a long period of practice, found that a prescription made from medicinal extracts of native roots, without the use of alcohol, relieved over 90 per cent. of such cases. After using this remedy for many years in his private practice he put it up in form of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, that would make it easily procurable, and it can be had at any store where medicines are handled.

MRS. LILA B. HAWKINS, of Zens, Va., writes: "I had been failing in health for two years—most of the time was not able to attend to my household duties. Female weakness was my trouble and I was getting very bad but, thanks to Doctor Pierce's medicines, I am well and strong again. I took only three bottles of 'Favorite Prescription,' and used the 'Lotion Tablets.' I have nothing but praise for Doctor Pierce's wonderful medicines."

8—PRECAUTIONS AGAINST TROUBLE

Despite the time, money and energy we spend in our constant efforts to give efficient telephone service troubles are liable to occur and do occur. Whether the trouble is with the operating, with the instrument or with the accounting department we want prompt reports. Oftentimes subscribers do not report troubles to us but tell all their neighbors and friends and give the impression that our whole system is improperly conducted. This is unfair to us and unfair to the subscriber.

We take every precaution to prevent troubles and we are anxious to correct those that do occur. Our whole success depends upon the quality of our service. It is all we have for sale. If the operator appears to you to be at fault or if your instrument does not seem to work properly we want to know about it immediately. We can explain how certain defects occur, but we have no excuse for poor operating. It is our worst enemy and you can help yourself if you will make prompt report in detail.

Sometimes annoying incidents occur for which we are not to blame. Our subscribers are reasonable people and we are sure each of them will be glad to help us, in this small way, to give good telephone service.

Call Complaint and make prompt reports when you have difficulties with your service.

HOME HEALTH CLUB

By Dr. David H. Reeder, Chicago, Illinois.

An Ounce of Prevention—It is a trite but true adage: "An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure." This particularly applies to the prevention of illness and especially to the prompt care and treatment of small afflictions that may result seriously, otherwise. There are many times when prompt action will turn aside a long spell of sickness and prevent a big bill from the doctor; save much valuable time; hinder a crippled condition for life, and even checkmate death.

When this is so palpable in common experience and backed by proverbs such as that quoted and: "A stitch in time saves nine," etc., it is somewhat remarkable that so many persons utterly ignore it all and reap the dire results.

A scratch that becomes inflamed; a sliver under a finger nail; a chafed foot that has been poisoned by the dye of a stocking; while in 99 cases out of 100—or in far greater proportion—these may heal naturally and with little care, upon the slightest sign of inflammation, the most perfect prevention should at once be resorted to. Otherwise there may come the danger of blood poisoning, lockjaw and worse.

When you find any cause of danger, remove the cause at once by thorough treatments taught in the Home Health Club books. If you are not in possession of the books, write to the club and the proper advice will be given you, freely and without charge.

Don't neglect a little cold, stop it, don't go around with a sore finger; heal it, don't watch your hair falling out, prevent it; don't growl and endure decaying teeth, remove the cause; don't wait until the lump in your breast becomes a cancer, or the brown scab on your cheek developes into a lupus; treat them to a finish, and if you do not know how, ask the Home Health Club.

There are simple home remedies and home treatments for all afflictions, from a distressing itching to tuberculosis. Properly administered under proper circumstances, these remedies and treatments will make you whole again and all of it can be done in your own home and with material that you have at hand, for the most part.

Club Notes.

Dear Doctor:—My little girl four years old is afflicted with nervous trouble. The doctors here say that the nerve leading to the cerebellum is affected. It was first noticed September 4th, 1910. She first complained of pain in the back of the neck, and in a short time she began to stagger and fall when she was walking. She has been troubled much with constipation, but is some better of that now. She falls when she closes her eyes while standing, cannot look upward without falling. She vomited very much, and with great force up until two weeks ago. Is plump, weighs 36 1-2 pounds. F. P. T.

I would not attempt to diagnose the case of your child from the description which you have given further than to say that it shows few of the symptoms of locomotor ataxia, although these usually are not found in so young a patient. I think you would be wise to have a very thorough examination made of the spine by a reliable and skilful osteopath, for probably there is some slight luxation of the spinal column, and have it also examined for adherent propuce.

I would not care to make additional suggestions without seeing the case.

Dear Doctor:—Two months ago I took sick. It started in the urinary organs. I have frequent desire to urinate, which bothers me a great deal. During urination and immediately following there is a very unpleasant, smarting, burning sensation. I have a sour taste in my mouth and a little fever every few days. For a while I seemed to improve, but now I am just as bad as I ever was. As soon as I eat there is a heavy feeling throughout my body. I try not to eat very much, but probably I do not eat the right things. I am 47 years old. I have intended writing you before, but thought I would improve without having to take treatments. From previous experiences with your methods I believe that you can help me out of my present sickness.

From the description you give of your case I would say that it has progressed until it has now become complicated. Instead of having only one or two conditions to treat you will have at least two to overcome. I believe it began in the digestive organs. You probably were not careful in regard to the food that you were eating as you should have been, consequently the stomach has become deranged and then the bowels, throwing too much work on the liver and urinary organs. Had you heeded the first warnings your stomach gave you, regulated your diet, and procured indicated internal remedies, you could have probably cut the attack short.

I would suggest that you regulate your diet so as to avoid pork, veal, made gravies and white bread. You may take a little mutton and chicken once daily, baked potatoes, whole wheat bread, ripe fruits, fruit sauces, and no more than two vegetables at one meal. Some cereals with cream or milk and a little fresh fruit would be sufficient for breakfast. But be careful not to over-eat of anything. You should drink a glass of cold water the first thing in the morning, two glasses between meals and one glass on retiring at night. The tissue elements of food would assist a great deal in overcoming your condition. I believe if you will regulate your diet as I have suggested and drink plenty of liquids between meals and eat very lightly for some weeks you will be able to overcome your difficulty. I shall be glad to suggest further should you desire it.

ENFORCED READING

Hugh Chalmers' Unique Plan For Eductating His Dealers.

Thousands of dollars are spent each year by the leading automobile companies on selling literature. Many devices are used to make this an effective selling force for the company Perhaps one of the most unique methods of increasing sales efficiency and getting the attention of a large organization to a piece of literature was recently originated by Hugh Chalmers.

out a book—"Story of the Chalmers Car"—which is a newsy story of how a Chalmers car is built, from designer's board to shipping platform. Mr. Chalmers wanted all dealers to read this book carefully so that it might be used most intelligently in promoting sales. So he dictated two letters. They first put members of this organization on their honor not to open the second until August 20th. The second letter, sealed in a separate envelope offered a new suit of clothes to the first two dealers who should read the "story of the Chalmers Car" from cover to cover and send an affidavit to that effect. Postmarks on the envelopes containing affidavits were to determine priority.

Chalmers dealers throughout the country were all curiosity. One nailed the mysterious letter to his office wall so that he should not forget it. Fully half the dealers in the country sat up until after midnight August 19th so that they might read the sealed message as soon as the clock announced the arrival of August 20th.

Two such won the prizes. H. E. Frederickson, of Omaha, sent for a notary while he was reading the book. His affidavit was postmarked at Omaha at 1:30 A. M. August 20th. L. H. Filiatrault, of Duluth, won the second suit of clothes. His affidavit bore a post mark of 5:30 A. M.

"The prizes were not the main issue, however," says Mr. Chalmers. "The big thing from our point of view is that every Chalmers dealer in the United States sat down August 20th and read that book from cover to cover. The contest made them do something which might otherwise have been neglected for months. Now every member of our organization has the big points of the 'Story of the Chalmers Car' firmly in mind. The dealers realize the immense amount of information in this book and they will use both the information and the book consistenly and intelligently."

Capt. J. L. Autry, the "Turpenting King of Sampson" was in town Monday. The Captain, aside from being a polished gentleman and one of the best citizens Sampson ever had, is an interesting character. He is getting along well in the seventies, but is more erect than most of the striplings we know. His snowy white hair and long, flowing beard make him look the part of the patriarch, and he has lived up to his looks. For a long time he has been the leading spirit of a large part of the county. As a young man just after the war he started out as a merchant, after teaching one or two years in the "free" schools of that day. He made money rapidly as a merchant and soon extended his activities to the manufacture of naval stores. Now if there are two things that the Captain sets store by they are the Baptist belief and turpentine. He was one of the pioneers in the manufacture of the pine product, and came to be one of the biggest manufacturers of the product in the State. Now that the stills have closed on account of the scarceness of "virgin" Mr. Autry is content with running his store, farm, school, church, and occasionally the South River Association, of which he was long the Moderator—and then a barrel of turpentine comes his way occasionally. He has always voted the Baptist ticket and is one of the best Bible scholars the writer ever saw. Captain Autry has set a good example for all of us to follow. The interest of his church and school have always been close to his heart. There is not a man or woman in his whole neighborhood that does not love him, or that are not under lasting obligations to him.

PRAISE WORK OF SIMMONS.

Senior Tar Heel Senator in Thorough Harmony With Party.

Washington, Sept. 12.—In an effort to find out if there was any real truth in the stories being published in North Carolina that Senator F. M. Simmons was not in harmony with his party here in Washington, your correspondent called on half dozen or more leading Senators, among them being Senators Hoke Smith, of Georgia; Martine, of New Jersey; Johnson, of Maine, and Rayner, of Maryland. These men were unanimous in their praise of Senator Simmons' leadership in the fight on tariff bills during the last session of Congress.

Senator Martine said he came to Washington a little bit prejudiced against Senator Simmons, because, he said, he had been told by several North Carolinians that the senior Senator was a "protectionist."

"My association with Senator Simmons in the Senate," said the New Jersey Senator, "has led me to believe that he is a thorough-going Democrat on all tariff measures. I am a 'radical progressive' and Senator Simmons' ideas on tariff measures suits me in every respect.

Senator Martine is a close personal and political friend of Governor Woodrow Wilson, the Democratic nominee for President, and the man with whom Governor Wilson beat "Jim" Smith for the United States Senate.

Senators Smith, of Georgia; Rayner, of Maryland, and Johnson, of Maine, expressed practically the same views as as those credited to Senator Martine. They all said Senator Simmons' leadership on the tariff bills had been entirely satisfactory. It is due to his leadership, said one leading Democratic Senator, that we were able to send Democratic tariff bills to President Taft and now go before the voters of the country with a record that cannot be answered by the Republicans.

"Senator Simmons," said Senator Rayner, "will be next chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, should the Democrats have a majority in the Senate next year. His management of the Democratic tariff bills will enable us to go before the country with a solid front in November."

Senator Simmons had the entire confidence of every Democrat in the Senate. His plans for putting the Republicans in a "hole" were followed out to the letter. In most every instance every Democratic Senator followed the leadership by voting for his amendments to tariff bills.

One of the oldest Associated Press newspaper men in Washington said a few days ago that the last session of Congress is the only one in a long time when the Democrats had a real leader on tariff bills. He referred to Senator Simmons.

All Night Bank for London—Stories of General Booth—Standard Oil Company in Sweden—Olympic Society and Other Notes.

(By Associated Press.)

London, Sept. 14.—An all night bank modeled on those which have been so successful in the United States is to be established here in a short time. A company has already been registered and the scheme has met with strong encouragement from business men.

The new institution will be especially welcomed by houses of entertainment of all sorts, which at the present time are compelled to keep their night takings under strong guard until the banks open the next day.

The eighteen hours during which it is impossible in London to either deposit or withdraw money often form a very awkward period for people who either have too much or too little money for their comfort until the next day.

With the death of General Booth many stories of the great religious leader are being told. Among his most engaging weakness was his pride in the D. C. L. degree conferred on him by the University of Oxford. When it was conferred there was a complete absence of the under graduate horseplay and ragging which usually distinguish such a gathering. This was very striking, especially in view of the well known objection of many prominent members of Convocation to the offer of the degree.

When General Booth left the University after the ceremony he insisted on wearing his academic robes in the train.

The Prince of Wales when he goes to Oxford University in October, will occupy the quarters in the tower of Magdalen College which were reserver for the son of Henry VII, in the fifteenth century, the last time a Prince of Wales attended Magdalen College.

The precedent set by his grandfather, King Edward, will thus not be followed.

The latter, when attending Christ Church, lived, not in the college but at Frewen Hall beside the Union.

The young Prince will thus get more of the undergraduate life than his grandfather did, but the proposal to have him take part in the college games has been rejected, probably on the grounds that such participation would be altogether too democratic for the future ruler of the British Empire.

The chase after the American elephant poacher Rogers in the Lado Enclave in Central Africa has brought into prominence the quiet work which is being done there to prevent the extinction of the biggest living land animal.

Something like 12,000 elephants bearing ivory valued at $2,500,000 were killed by hunters and poachers during 1908 and 1909.

For many years the ivory supplied by natives from elephants which had long been dead, supplied the demand, but this supply was soon practically exhausted, and the hunt which began for ivory would have rendered the elephant extinct had it not been for energetic action by the government.

No one may now shoot an elephant in certain restricted districts, nor a cow with calf anywhere. For bull elephant shooting the number is restricted to two a year, and a heavy license is required.

The licensed hunter may not kill an animal bearing less than forty pounds of ivory, but the poacher chooses anything with tusks. The cow tusks make the best billiard balls, and even the immature bulls do not escape the illicit hunter.

In spite of all these restricitons, a large number of elephants is still killed in out of the way places. In 1907 it became known that the Lado Enclave swarmed with elephants and for the sake of the large gains poachers willing to risk the serious punishment flocked there, and James Wood Rogers of Plainville, Michigan, was one of these. He and his two English companions with an armed native force of 100 caused immense slaughter among the herds.

A warrant issued in 1650 by John Bradshaw, president of the court which passed the death penalty on King Charles I., was recently found hidden behind an old painting in the South African Public Library at Cape Town. The librarian was removing the picture from its frame when the old parchment dropped out. It had been placed between the boarding and the back of the picture.

Thorogood's receipt is indorsed on the back of the warrant, which is signed by Bradshaw in his capacity as President of the Council of State by the authority of Parliament.

In every department of vital statistics the United Kingdom has set up records for the past year. The second quarter of 1912 registered 3.7 below the mean birth rate, and 1.5 below the mean death rate, all three representing a record for the quarters.

Proportionately speaking, Durham is the most and Sussex the least probable scene of an infant's birth. London stands first in one respect; it is the place where the proportion of marriages is the highest.

Stockholm, Sept. 14.—The war for the control of the oil market in the Scandinavian countries has resulted in practically a complete victory for the Standard Oil Company. The only concession obtained by the Scandinavian Association from the big American company was that the price of oil in Scandinavian territory should not exceed the price asked in any other European country.

The Standard Oil Company obtained an entrance into the country by an agreement with existing interests to take over the distribution system for oil in Scandinavia.

The Prince of Wales when he goes to Oxford University in October will occupy the quarters in the tower of Magdalen College, which were reserved for the son of Henry VII. in the fifteenth century, the last time a Prince of Wales attended Magdalen College.

The precedent set by his grandfather, King Edward, will thus not be followed.

The latter when attending Christ Church lived, not in the college, but at Frewen Hall beside the Union.

The young Prince will thus get more of the undergraduate life than his grandfather did, but the proposal to have him take part in the college games has been rejected, probably on the grounds that such participation would be altogether too democratic for the future ruler of the British Empire.

The chase after the American elephant poacher Rogers in the Lado Enclave in Central Africa has brought into prominence the quiet work which is being done there to prevent the extinction of the biggest living land animal.

Something like 12,000 elephants bearing ivory value at $2,500,000 were killed by hunters and poachers during 1908 and 1909.

For many years the ivory supplied by natives from elephants which had long been dead supplied the demand, but this supply was soon practically exhausted, and the hunt which began for ivory would have rendered the elephant extinct, had it not been for energetic action by the government.

No one may now shoot an elephant in certain restricted districts, nor a cow with calf anywhere. For bull elephant shooting the number is restricted to two a year, and a heavy license is required.

The licensed hunter may not kill an animal bearing less than forty pounds of ivory, but the poacher chooses anything with tusks. The cow tusks make the best billiard balls, and even the immature bull do not escape the illicit hunter.

In spite of all these restricitions a large number of elephants is still killed in out of the places. In 1907 it became known that the Lado Enclave swarmed with elephants and for the sake of the large gains poacher willing to risk the serious punishment flocked there, and James Wood Rogers, of Plainville, Michigan, was one of these. He and his two English companions with an armed native force of 100 caused immense slaughter among the herds.

THEATRICAL

The Academy will this week make one of its signal offerings of the season. It will be the yearly appearance of the Al G. Field's Greater Minstrels, Thursday night, and it goes without saying that the theatre will be packed to the doors. Seats for this notable event in minstrelsy will go on sale at Plummer's Wednesday morning.

Costuming a minstrel company involves more than the ordinary spectator could ever surmise. Color schemes, styles, trimmings the effect under certain colored lights, and material are but a few points that the minstrel costumer must take into consideration when planning the dress of the various members of the company. Al G. Field is the only producer who personally sketches and designs all the costumes used in the performance and in the parade.

During the twenty-seven years the Al G. Field Greater Minstrels have been one of the annual visitors at the theatres throughout the country, Field has been entirely responsible for the costuming of the company, and during the Summer season while the members of the company are enjoying their vacation, he is busily engaged sketching the designing costumes, and watching the products of his brains turned out by the costumers. Every year the color scheme is changed, and the minstrel manager has never used the same effects any two seasons during his career. To completely change not only the styles but the colors during this period is a task that has never been duplicated in the history of minstrelsy.

Field uses lay figures on a miniature stage fitted with lights of every color used in a theatrical production. The colors and costumes are fashioned in paper, attached to the figures, the mannikins set on the stage and the various lights thrown upon the entirety. A paint box near by is brought into use to change tones and tints until the desired combination is reached. Field does all of this work on his farm, Maple Villa, near Columbus, Ohio. In his study he has a miniature stage erected with the required illumination, and the lay figures are made from ordinary spools mounted on matchsticks.

This season the orchestra in the opening spectacle, "Minstrelsy Past and Present" are garbed as Spanish students, while something entirely new in a sartorial way has ben fashioned for the members of the Gold Band, one of the distinctive features of the minstrels. The parade costumes also show a marked individuality in cut and style, while the costumes the comedians wear include exaggerations and satirical effects on the dress of today that is really laughter-provoking.

A novelty in trunks, another of Field's ideas, is used to properly pack the costumes so that creases and stains are unknown. That characteristic freshness and newness which marks each season's programme is also evident in the costumes.

With an entire new wardrobe, an entirely new programme of features and electrical effects, the A. G. Field Greater Minstrels has been heralded by critics all along the route as the last word in minstrel entertainment. The claim made by Field that this year's aggregation is the masterpiece of his career is seconded by every lover of the blackface form of entertainment, while new patrons have been added to the list of ever-growing minstrel fans.

Opening Season of The Grand

The Grand Theatre will open the Fall season tomorrow with its full orchestra and soloist, who has been engaged especially for this season, the regular prices prevailing during the Winter—five cents during the afternoon and ten cents at night. But while the price has advanced, it does not by any means compare with the increase of the bill, for besides the full orchestra the Grand management at considerable expense has secured for the season the services of Mr. Leonard Chick, a soloist of note, who will be heard each day at the performances at this premier popular-priced amusement house in Wilmington. During the Summer, while the full orchestra and the soloist, did not appear the small price of five cents was charged, but with the more than doubling of the entertainment afforded, the prices have gone back to the regular standard for the Winter.

MR. LEONARD CHICK

Monday, therefore, promises to be a great day with patrons of the Grand. Mr. Cheek is a balladist, second to none on the vaudeville circuit in the South. He is one of the highest salaried artists in his line and is really a leader. He has been contracted with by Mr. Solky for a limited time and he will no doubt prove most popular from the beginning. His repertoire of songs embrace the very latest New York hits and he has a superb voice that has won for him fame and fortune on some of the best circuits in the North.

In addition to these added features, the Grand management have arranged with Mr. Leonard Wood for effects for all the moving pictures. This adds one hundred fold to the realism of the production and patrons will appreciate it from the beginning.

The pictures for Monday will include a Vitagraph, "The Higher Mercy," a story of Abraham Lincoln. "The Half Breed's Sacrifice" is a Lubin of unusual beauty and brilliance. It is a story of the West and will be appreciated to the fullest extent.

Week at the Bijou.

Closing a big week last night, one of the biggest in its history, the Bijou, Wilmington's popular amusement palace, is ready to start off another week, commencing tomorrow and tomorrow's bill is going to be one of the biggest, brightest and most novel ever presented. The Bijou has prepared big things for tomorrow, in order to inaugurate what is without doubt going to prove one of the greatest artistic weeks in its entire career. And, although great and expensive film features, as well as attractive music, will be offered, the price of admission of 5 cents—any and all times—and it intends to maintain that price as long as it is in business. Time has brought many improvements to the Bijou, the pioneer "movie" not only of Wilmington, but of North Carolina, and the expense of operating the theatre, to say nothing of the cost of the up-to-date, handsome theatre itself, has increased, but the price of admission is never advanced. It never will be.

The shows are also presented in the very best manner possible and under perfect conditions, as the theatre is electrically cooled and is well ventilated.

Tomorrow's bill will contain a great number of good things. The films are the very best and the very latest, coming direct from factory to the Bijou. The great mystic film, "The Hindoo Curse", is one of tomorrow's topliners. It is both weird and startling and it will prove one of the biggest surprises and novelties of the season. Another star is a thrilling war drama, "The Darling of the C. S. A." It is a drama of the war between the States, and it takes place amid the shriek of shell and glare of battle. It is a thriller from start to finish. The other films are also superb and must not be missed.

CLARK'S REGIMENTAL HISTORIES

They Are Available at Office of Any Clerk of Superior Court.

Raleigh, N. C., Sept. 1912.

To whom it may concern:

Some years ago, the State of North Carolina, for the use and benefit of all the people of our State, sent to the Superior Court Clerk's office, of each county in North Carolina, a set of Regimental Histories by Chief Justice Clark, a set of Colonial and State Records, and a set of Moore's Rosters of the Soldiers of the War of 1861-65.

As stated, these books were deposited at the court house for the use and benefit of the people of North Carolina. It is a fact that only a few of our people know of this important matter. Just las week a lady from Vance county came to see me for information which I found in the Colonial Records; and I informed her that the books were in the clerk's office in her town; I haven't seen any one so happy in many days. She says: "I can go to the clerk's office and get what I want, and save the expense of coming to Raleigh. Our clerk is a clever man; I am delighted."

There is no way for our people to find out about this arrangement, unless the newspapers in each and every county in North Carolina will publish the fact that the books named were deposited in the Superior Court clerk's office in each county. Some years ago I called attention to the matter in two or three of the daily papers; I don't think any other papers mentioned it. I desire to see if we cannot get all the newspapers in our State to call attention to the matter. I will state that it is the most important matter of news that you can bring to the attention of your readers.

I suggest that where there is a library in the county (court house) town, that the County Commissioners make arrangements to place the books in the library for the convenience of the people.

I do hope every newspaper in North Carolina will call attention to the foregoing matter. The clerk of each county who has not received the appendices can get the three volumes by making application, or when the fourth and last volume is published they can get them all at one time. The clerks in the new counties are entitled to a full set as soon as they are prepared to take care of the books.

Respectfully,
MILES O. SHERRILL,
State Librarian.

An experiment in mobilizing the Swedish army is about to be made on a large scale by the government in order to see how the new system introduced in 1901 will work in time of war. The recent reports of the forward movement of Russian troops toward the frontier lends much interest to the tests.

No one has any idea which section of the country will be mobilized, and the public is becoming very impatient, for in the mobilization district it means that practically every man over 21 and under 40 years of age will be called upon to bear arms during the maneuvers.

The Canadian eight which rowed so pluckily against the Leander Club during the Olympic games, has been awarded a special diploma of merit by the Swedish Rowing Committee.

ASKS CORPORATION FUNDS

Bull Moosers Not Careful About Requesting Campaign Contributions —A Significant Letter In Reply—Stinging Rebuke

(Special from a World Staff Cor.)

Jamestown, N. Y., Sept. 4.—Proof that the campaign managers of Col. Roosevelt's Progressive party are seeking contributions from corporations is furnished by a letter written by E. H. Hooker, Bull Moose Treasurer, to Arthur C. Wade, president of the Chautauqua Towel Mills of this city. Under date of August 26th, Mr. Wade received a request that he subscribe $50 to the "Progressive cause." His reply, dated August 29th, follows:

"Mr. E. H. Hooker, Manhattan Hotel, New York, N. Y.

"Dear Sir: I am just in receipt of your letter of the 26th inst., addressed to me in care of the Chautauqua Towel Mills, Jamestown, N. Y. Of course, by that address. I am advised that you know I am president of the corporation, in whose care the letter was sent. Did you know this was a great corporation, engaged in inter-State commerce? Did you not intend to call upon that institution for a contribution to the campaign fund of the so-called Progressive party? To be sure, I am aware that, in words, the appeal is made to me personally and not to the corporation, but I am strongly impressed with the idea—aren't you?—that it was meant for the corporation. I suppose you know that a corporation is forbidden to make contributions to political parties or organizations for campaign purposes, even though it be to expect the obscure virtues of the Bull Moose organization.

"There is one thing in your letter, however, that is charming. It is evident you believe in labor-saving devices. You have subjected me to no trouble or inconvenience or labor in determining the amount which I should contribute. You have graciously named it yourself—$50. This, I assure you, is touching, and I am wondering how many are willing to be touched by similar pleas.

"Let me tell you a better and easier way to get the money. Collar the Steel Trust, the Standard Oil interests, the National Harvester Company, the Sugar Trust, the Meat Packers, and the large railroads. Make them shell out to the tune of $100,000 or $200,000 each; then have your Chief write a letter to you directing you to return the money, but you be sure not to return it.

Advises Old Letter Game

"Then if the thing should ever come to the surface in the future, you can read the letters he has written to you and you can swear that you received them. You can readily see the process is simple, and besides, it is safe and sure. Of course, I do not claim that the idea is new with me. Your Chief knows better than I how it has worked. I have no patent on it, and, in fact, could secure none, because the whole thing is fully anticipated in the 'Prior Art.'

"I am greatly obliged to you for sending me the few paragraphs from the Bull Moose platform, which, however, I had taken occasion to read before I received these extracts from you. I also had in my possession a copy of the platform of the Socialist party, and sometimes, in reading the two platforms, I had to stop and look at the heading to be sure about which one I was reading. I do not charge that you took your platform largely from the Socialist platform; it is only another instance of great minds running together.

"I note that you 'demand a strong national regulation of inter-State corporations.' You ought, in some way, to induce your candidate to adopt this platform. He seems unwilling to stand on it, because he demands a national commission with power to regulate and control all such business. I am sure you will appreciate the difference between public supervision and public control. Don't you really think capital would be crazy to invest in enterprizes of this character, knowing that such business was to be regulated and controlled by a commission appointed by Theodore Roosevelt, appointed by one who has never made a business success of any business in his entire life, outside of politics? Even his imaginary charge up San Juan Hill was a failure.

"Now, my dear sir, I am not at all in sympathy with your undertaking. Three times I have closed my eyes, shut God and Conscience out of the boots and voted for the Greatest political skirt-dancer the world has ever produced. I am one of those individuals who thinks he knows when he has had enough of a good thing, and I have entered into an agreement with myself never to repeat that performance.

T. R. to Rule or Ruin

"The Republican party has in the past honored Theodore Roosevelt to the full measure of its ability, and after all that, with brazen effrontery, he discloses a purpose to rule that party or ruin it. There are many things worse than defeat, and in my judgment there is one thing worse than the ruin of the Republican party, and that would be to have it longer ruled by Col. Roosevelt.

"He cries out against the 'bosses,' having drawn to his assistance every 'political hack' whom he could induce to desert the party that has given them in the past all they ever had or can ever hope for politically. If the so-called 'bosses' to whom he so contemptuously refers could all be resolved into one, that one would pale into insignificance in comparison with your Chief.

"I note you say 'we intend to put a large number of speakers on the road.' Grand! It could not be better. But, be sure and put them in the middle of the road. That position will at once indicate what they are seeking. This remark is peculiarly applicable to your Chief. In this neck of the woods at least when a man is traveling in the middle of the road it is instantly understood that he is looking for a job.

"I am especially pleased with your belief in your platform. You tell me that the planks you send me 'offer the merchants, manufacturers and industrial leaders of the country a rational constructive charter of business prosperity.' Bully! Of course, this is not new to me. I read this platform immediately after it was adopted and instantly discovered that it was designed to catch everything from a Chinese laundry to the Bank of England.

"After writing what I have just quoted you say in your letter:

"'Neither the Democratic nor the Republican party has the courage to hold out any definite proposals on this important subject.' For definiteness of statement your plataform is, to say the least, a charm.

"Some parts of it may be read backward as well as forward, and anything desirable made out of it. There are some things in it with which I agree, and some with which I do not agree, but I want to assure you that if I thought there was any danger of your candidate being elected I should at once become an ardent advocate of the recall.

"One of the most notable things in your platform is the certainty that you 'aim to please.' You favor the Initiative, the Referendum, the Recall, the 'Raise-Hell,' and anything and everything else that will catch a vote. Glorious is your ambition; great is your prospect. But what would become of your organization if your Chief should pass away? Heaven knows; I dare not predict.

"Very respectfully,
"ARTHUR C. WADE."

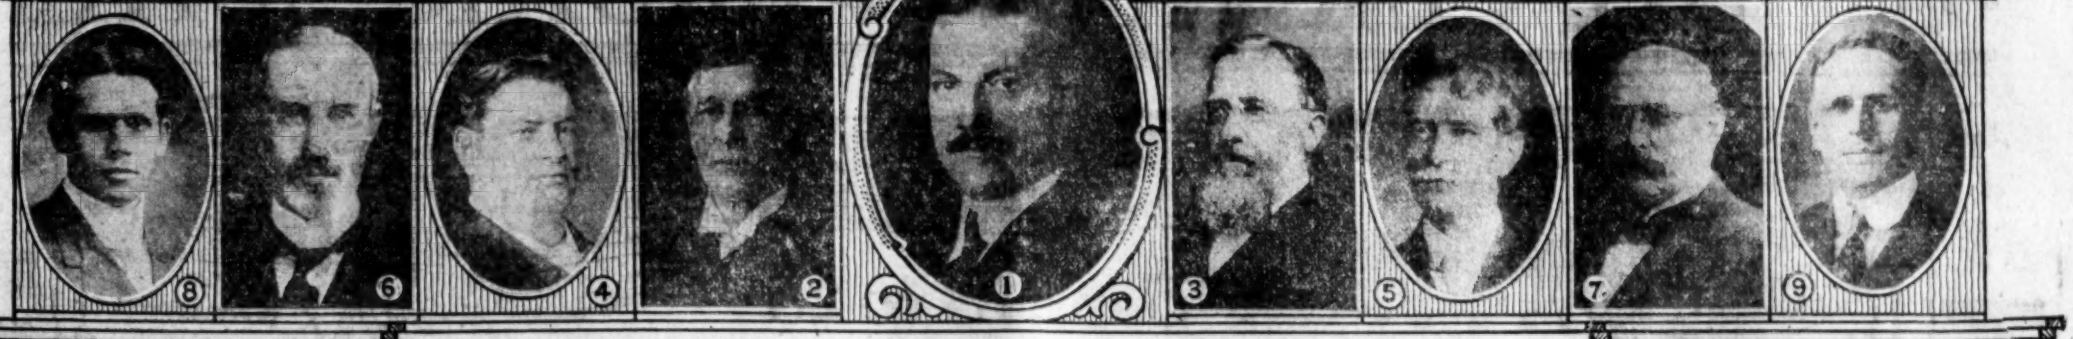
CHAMBER OF COMMERCE OF THE UNITED STATES.



Organization and Purposes of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States

The Chamber of Commerce of the United States of America was organized at the National Commercial Conference called by the President of the United States through Secretary Nagel and held in the city of Washington, D. C., April 22-23, 1912.

This conference was attended by about 700 delegates representing 392 Chambers of Commerce, Boards of Trade and associations organized in the interest of one trade or group of trades.

Practically every State and Territory was represented by one or more organizations, and delegates were also present from the Philippine Islands, Porto Rico, Hawaii, and the American Chambers of Commerce of Paris, Brussels, and Constantinople.

In order that all sections of the country and all interests might have a voice in determining the plan of organization, State caucuses were held, each State naming one member of the committee on plan of organization, the chairman of the conference naming ten additional members at large.

This same representative committee was later made a nominating committee to bring in nominations for the board of directors.

The scope of the usefulness of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States is as wide as our country, for it broadens into the national field the ideal of local and special commercial organizations. That ideal is to know resource possibilities of the nation, and to be in touch with the activities of the human beings through whom resources have value.

The Chamber of Commerce of the United States of America is organized to accomplish much that is specific, and three general purposes, each necessary and each hitherto neglected.

In the first place, it is to be a clearing house for business opinion, business methods, and such efforts of organized commercial bodies as have suggestive importance in relation to the work of other organizations.

In the second place, it will furnish to the public, and to the government at Washington that correlation which has hitherto been lacking in the activities of the government. It will be a correlating force, thus enabling all the people to learn through an official organization just exactly what is available in the way of knowledge from a government that is very highly ramified and scientifically specialized.

In the third place, it is to secure by means of referendum vote an intimate knowledge of the business sentiment of the United States on all important subjects affected by national legislation.

Taking these three features of its work in the order named, it is apparent that the efforts of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States will confer upon American life a power and an advantage that were hitherto lacking.

(1) During the past twenty-five years there have sprung into existence a great variety of business organizations in all parts of the United States. Some are organized to look after the interests of a community, some of a State, some are drawn toward national questions. Some are solely occupied with the development of one given line of business. Though all of these activities are necessarily related to each other, they have hitherto had no point of contact. There has not been a great central organization through which they could correlate their information and secure its distribution and consideration by the world at large. Many a bright local idea can confer a great benefit on organized endeavor everywhere. The progress of one part of the country has been but little understood or known by other parts of the country, for there has been no organized body charged with the duty of keeping all parts of the United States advised of the progress of all parts. Yet in a fuller knowledge of the nation's progress as a whole and in all its parts, is a reassuring influence on the national mind. The Chamber of Commerce of the United States was organized in a spirit of optimism, and in the belief that there are better things ahead, along the highway of national life, and that those better things will be aided by bringing more and more organizations into touch with each other, and more and more men into touch with constructive organization effort.

(2) In the direction of correlated governmental activities, it is apparent in Washington, and still more apparent throughout the States, that very little working knowledge exists as to the functions performed by the government or as to the thoroughness with which research on all sorts of questions has been made, and is being made. Within the limits of Washington itself, and sometimes within the limits of one department, there are bureaus performing valuable work yet the results of their work remain practically unknown. Within the same department it is possible for scientific research to go forward that remains altogether unheralded. Instances could be cited where two bureaus in neighboring buildings knew nothing of each other's work. There was a case recently where a bureau decided to change its lighting system. It started an exhaustive investigation. Yet within the same department the Bureau of Standards had been all over the ground, reached conclusions, and made statements that were already valuable for all who needed the information. If, now, this condition exists in Washington itself how lamentable must be the general failure throughout the nation to use the multifarious service which the government is ready to perform, and which it can better perform than any private organization. Therefore, the Chamber of Commerce of the United States of America will most earnestly work to render available to the nation, the varied and useful work which is being carried on for the benefit of the nation in the departments and bureaus at Washington.

(3) In the matter of intimate touch between the Congress of the United States and the business interests of the United States, it is self-evident that Representatives and Senators, together with the legislation that they put forth, suffer by reason of a lack of intimate knowledge of the business sentiment of the United States. There are, indeed, many hearings on many subjects, but only a few come to these hearings, and in no case has there been a public hearing in the city of Washington where the business interests of the whole nation were adequately represented and able to make the voice of their desire known. Yet, day by day, questions of business are constantly coming up in connection with which the President, the departments, and Congress would be glad to know the actual impressive wish of the people relative to some subject of national policy. Consequently, the Chamber of Commerce of the United States of America will serve as a means of bringing together business opinions on many business subjects as affected by national legislation. It will carry on a referendum system, month after month, and year after year in order to be able to supply to the Congress, to the government, and to each incumbent President exactly what is the business judgment of the United States on some subject affecting business or development.

Following the advice of the Secretary of Commerce and Labor in his address at the National Commercial Conference, the board of directors was ordered to take steps to secure a Federal charter. A bill was, therefore, prepared and introduced in the House of Representatives on June 4 and referred to the Committee on the Judiciary, which committee promptly reported the bill back to the House "with the recommendation that the bill do pass" and with the following significant comments:

"As the purpose of the corporation proposed in this bill is to encourage trade and commercial intercourse among the States, the District of Columbia, the Territories, and insular possessions of the United States and with foreign nations; In other words, as its purpose is to encourage, stimulate, facilitate, and extend our commercial relations, there can be no question as to the right and the power of Congress to grant the proposed charter."

"While we have many commercial bodies in the country, known as chambers of commerce and commercial clubs of one sort or another, they are all purely local in their character, intended only to benefit the particular communities in which they are located we have no organization of a national or quasi national character, such as it is proposed in this bill to organize. The proposed organization would be Federal in its character, its constituent elements being various commerce bodies throughout the country, so that if the purpose be fully realized, it will be thoroughly national and cosmopolitan."

"Its possible usefulness is practically unlimited, both as to our domestic and foreign commercial relations."

"In the collection, publication and distribution of the latest commercial statistics alone it can do incalculable good."

"It can and ought to greatly increase the commercial standing and importance of the United States among foreign nations by materially extending our foreign trade and by creating a higher standard of business ethics."

The question set for solution by the first series of officers is simple in the stating, but complex in the answer: Can the business organizations and the business interests that are scattered over forty-eight States and our possessions be brought into one cohesive body that shall ultimately be able to bring to a focus the entire constructive thought of the entire nation; thus providing a point of contact between a most elaborated national government, forty-eight State variants, and the most widespread democratic civilization on earth. The judgment of the 700 men was affirmative. If they are correct, and it is possible for the organized forces of the United States to lay down foundation principles for such an inclusive body, then in the year 1912 there has been brought into existence a force that if wisely guided and carefully planned and nourished, will reach out over all the coming years and will affect the destiny of the nation for good until the end of time.

A quarter of a century ago this month, the head of our firm, Mr. Polvogt, embarked in business with Mr. J. H. Rehder in one of the stores now occupied by the J. H. Rehder & Co. In reference to the establishment and development of THE C. W. POLVOGT CO., we might state that at the start of Mr. Polvogt's career he was a bundle boy for the establishment he now owns. This business was built up to its present proportions by hard work, close attention to details, giving full values for money and above all, giving satisfaction to patrons, even at a sacrifice. We take this method of thanking our friends and the public for their liberal patronage during the past 25 years and to celebrate our 25th anniversary we are going to give away a part of our profits for 10 days by having an ANNIVERSARY SALE from
